BRITISH MOTOR ARMY ROLLS TO AID YUGOSLAVS

ROME, April 7 (AP)---British motorized divisions have already started rolling toward the Yugoslavian battlefronts, Stefani, official Italian news agency disclosed today. The news agency said British forces---vanguard of 150,000 British imperial troops landed in southeast Europe---had been "hit hard" by bombing attacks in both Greece and Yugoslavia.

This was the first intimation that the British have swung into action to support Yugosalvia.

Nazis Held on 750-Mile Front

BERN, Switzerland, April 7 (AP)---Advices reaching here tonight said that German forces had not captured any strategic points at the end of the second day of the Nazi smashes on a 750-mile front into Greece and Yugoslavia.

WAR BULLETINS

BUDAPEST, April 7 (AP)—The official Hungarian News agency announced today that six British planes were shot down by Hungarian fighters over Szeged. Six bombs were said to have been dropped at Pecs by Yugoslav planes. Yugoslav planes also were said to have bombed Arad, Rumania.

BERN, Switzerland, April 7 (AP)—A radio broadcast heard on the wave length of the Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, radio said today that Yugoslav artillery had opened fire along the Albanian frontier in preparation for an attack in Albania.

BERLIN, April 7 (AP)—Yugoslavia's whole transport and communication system has been "fatally" disrupted by the swift blows of the Luftwaffe, DNB, official German news agency, said today.

By the Associated Press

Greek troops were reported to have withstood violent new assaults today in the second day of Adolf Hitler's invasion of the Aegean kingdom, while in Yugoslavia, target of a twin Nazi thrust, the Germans claimed an advance of 18 to 25 miles.

The direction of the German advance into Yugoslavia was not given. Nazi troops massed on the Rumanian frontier had been within 50 miles striking distance of Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital.

Athens dispatches said Greek infantrymen were holding fast amid furious attacks in narrow Macedonian mountain passes littered with German dead and the wreckage of 10 Nazi tanks.

The Greek high command said the German Palm Sunday invasion had been stopped with the loss of only a single fort.

Stefani, official Italian news agency, said Mussolini's armies in Albania had frustrated an attempt by Greek troops to make contact with Yugoslav forces in two days of bitter fighting.

Stefani reported that the Italians had virtually wiped out a Greek division of three regiments.

The German onslaught against Greece centered on the narrow, gorge-trapped Struma river valley in Macedonia.

Authorized quarters in Berlin admitted the precipitous terrain in both Greece and southern Yugoslavia might enable poorly-equipped forces to hold up superior German contingents temporarily.

These quarters warned that the same "miracles" of the German army in the blitzkrieg against France last summer should not necessarily be expected in the new Balkan conflict.

Athens reports said fierce air battles over the fighting ground troops today had cost the Germans at least 11 planes. It was also said that an irregular band of Bulgarians had joined in the battle this morning against the Greeks, but had been captured.

DNB, German news agency, asserted that Yugoslavia's whole transport and communications system had been "fatally" disrupted by Nazi warplanes.

Reports from Turkey said from 12 to 15 German divisions—about 180,000 to 225,000 troops—were slashing into Yugoslavia toward the Croatian capital of Zagreb from the old Austrian border, 65 miles north.

NAZIS STRIKE FROM RUMANIA

Three Nazi divisions (45,000 men) were said to be striking from Rumania toward Belgrade; three other divisions driving from Bulgaria toward the strategic Vardar river valley in southern Yugoslavia, key route to Greece, and other divisions slashing from Bulgaria toward Nis, 65 miles northwest of Sofia.

Dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, quoted the Yugoslav radio as saying that Yugoslav artillery had opened fire along the Albanian frontier, preparing for an attack on Italian-held Albania.

"The enemy, having made some progress, was stopped all along

ALONG BALKAN BATTLEFRONTS—Hitler's blitz army in the Balkans rolled haltingly onward today, despite huge losses . . . battling the Greeks in fierce encounters along the Struma river valley (1) and driving on Yugoslav forces aiming at Belgrade (2), Zagreb (3) and Nis (4). Object of thrust at Zagreb was to split the Yugoslav army in two. Meanwhile, Italy's air force blasted away at Slav bases (5) along the Adriatic. Belgrade was battered by Nazi air bombs and Rumania ordered a general mobilization.

Nazis Abandon Blitz Tactics In Drive on Greeks, Slavs

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERLIN, April 7 (INS)—With "blitz" tactics ruled out as impracticable, the German army slogged into a slow and systematic attempt to break down Greek and Yugoslavian defenses today, and gains of from 18 to 24 miles at various points were claimed by nightfall.

At 6:50 p. m., one hour and ten minutes before an order became effective prohibiting dispatch of any further news messages abroad until 7 a. m. tomorrow, an official statement said:

"German attacks on the Serbian and Greek fronts have progressed further. Enemy resistance at fortified positions was overcome by energetic action."

The night "curfew" on news to points abroad will be in effect until further notice.

Under the wings of Stuka dive-bombers which terrorized Holland, Belgium and France, Nazi troops shoved powerful wedges into the Reich's two new enemy countries, it was said.

A semi-official statement issued at 5 p. m. said:

"Operations in Serbia and Greece are developing according to plan thus far and meet all expectations.

"In accordance with experience gained in the Polish and French campaigns, nothing much can be said until the German military plan has unfolded beyond its initial phases.

GREEKS HOLD

"But already pushes down the Struma valley and into south Serbia to the west are progressing favorably. The first day produced heaviest fighting, despite which from 30 to 40 kilometers (18 to 24 miles) in depth were won."

Expressing conviction the campaigns would result in a British debacle, the Wilhelmstrasse said:

"This is an Axis war—not one fought by Germany alone."

Stubborn resistance was offered by Greek forces in the Struma river valley, it was admitted.

The German high command announced four separate successful raids against Belgrade, Yugoslavian capital, in which airports, barracks, bridges, stations and traffic facilities were bombed and heavily damaged. Huge fires shot out of the Yugoslav capital.

In the Belgrade assaults, amended figures said, 35 Yugoslavian planes were shot down in air duels and 34 destroyed on the ground. Nine others were damaged. Four British bombers were brought down, it was said, and only 7 German planes lost in the whole venture.

AIRPORTS BLASTED

Airports and other objectives throughout the length and breadth of Yugoslavia were subjected to attack, it was said. Localities attacked included Podgoritz, Kumbur, Mostar and Serajevo, heavy damage being done in each case.

The German offensive apparently is aimed first for Belgrade, Zagreb, the capital of Croatia, and Salonika, Greek port on the Aegean where the bulk of British forces are believed massed.

Hull Lauds Russia For Pact With Slavs; U. S. Will Rush Aid

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—The friendship and non-aggression pact which Russia and Yugoslavia signed just before Germany's invasion of the Balkan nation was termed encouragaing today by Secretary Hull.

Hull told his press conference at the same time that American envoys in the Balkans still were cut off from communication with the State Department.

The Secretary of State said that the Russian-Yugoslav agreement made clear that an increasing number of nations were becoming acutely aware of the world nature of what he called a movement of conquest of people by force.

He declined to interpret the pact except to say that it apparently spoke for itself and that he considered it encouraging.

His assertion was the second favorable commment toward Russia by a high state department official in recent weeks.

HULL HANDS PETAIN STAND

On March, 25, Sumner Welles, then acting Secretary of State, formally applauded Soviet Russia in joining Turkey in a statement of "comprehensive neutrality" in the event that Turkey entered the war.

Hull today also termed as important a statement by Marshal Henry Petain, chief of the French state, that France's honor required that she take no action against a former ally.

The United States prepared to rush shipments of war supplies to Yugoslavia and Greece today after Secretary Hull had denounced Germany's Balkan invasion as "barbaric" and dpromised that material assistance would be dispatched to the defenders "as speedily as possible."

U. S. GUNS FOR SLAVS

Indications were that these munitions would be started across the Atlantic, probably in Yugoslav vessels now in American ports, either today or by mid-week at the latest.

The Administration is understood to have been preparing for several days against the hour when Germany would launch her Balkan blitzkrieg.

Included in the shipments may be the 75 millimeter gpns which President Roosevelt said last week would be sent to Greece, as well as machine guns, mortors, ammunition, bombs and other supplies drawn from the stores of the United States Army.

In addition to these implements of war more than $1,000,000 worth of medical supplies were ordered sent to Yugoslavia. Chairman Norman H. Davis directed the Red Cross to furnish "without delay" 10 field hospitals, tons of medicines and blankets and an initial shipment of 2,000,000 surgical dressings.

Aircraft were not expected to be included in the munitions shipments since Britain's RAF already is operating in the Balkan area and has been receiving American planes. More than 100 P-40 fighters have been sent to British squadrons

MEDIATORS TACKLE FORD, STEEL STRIKES

By the Associated Press

Federal labor agencies, heartened by a week-end which brought an agreement for settlement of the Allis-Chalmers strike in Milwaukee and a break in the soft coal mining tieup, turned with expressed optimism today to the problem of calming labor strife in the Ford Motor Co. and the huge U. S. Steel Corp.

The Allis-Chalmers walkout, which has blocked work on $45,000,000 of defense orders since Jan. 22, was settled by the Defense Mediation Board yesterday when management and CIO union officials signed an agreement. The union membership ratified the agreement today.

The company announced it would reopen the plant to its 7800 employes tomorrow.

In New York northern soft coal mine operators and the CIO United Mine Workers made ready a new contract to replace one which expired last week. Southern operators, who claim to produce 35 per cent of the nation's bituminous coal, said they would not sign. Principal UMW demands included wage increases and elimination of a North-South pay differential.

Weir Announces Steel Pay Boost

PITTSBURGH, April 7 (AP)—Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, announced today the company had granted employes a wage increase of 10 cents an hour, effective April 1.

Weir said that detailed arrangement for the increase "are now being worked out" in all subsidiaries of the company. A spokesman for the company estimated that about 21,000 hourly rate employes will be affected.

Serbs, Croats in U. S. Would Fight for Slavs

NEW YORK, April 7 (INS)—Thousands of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes throughout the United States and Canada have offered their services to the Yugoslav Army during the past 24 hours, Dr. Svetislav Petrovitch, former director of Avala, the Yugoslav official news agency, disclosed today.

Rome Claims Sinking Of British Ship

ROME, April 7 (AP)—The Italian command credited an Italian submarine today with sinking one "enemy" ship and scoring a torpedo hit on another in an attack on a British convoy in the eastern Mediterranean.

Greek King's Stirring Battle Appeal

In a ringing call to action King George of Greece spurred his heroic army to new heights of valor as the Nazi war machine started rolling across the Greek border. Herewith is the text of the royal proclamation:

Hellenes, a new enemy has this morning attacked the honor of our country. At the same moment that the German government handed the Greek government a document informing Greece of its action, German troops without warning struck at our frontiers. Our gallant army, the vigilant guardians of our sacred soil, are already defending it with our blood.

The Greek people, who have already proved to the world that they value honor above all else, will now defend themselves to the very last against the new foe.

Another empire has today attacked this country of ours, which is small in land but at the same time so great in spirit as to allow no one to outrage us. Our struggle will be hard, difficult and ruthless. We shall not quail before any pains. We shall not stop at any sacrifice. We know that victory will once more definitely crown our efforts.

At our side stand our powerful allies, the nations of the British Commonwealth with their indomitable will, as well as the United States of America with their inexhaustible resources. On the field of battle we fight shoulder to shoulder with our brothers, the Yugoslavs, who together with us are shedding their blood for the salvation of the Balkans and of humanity.

KING GEORGE

We shall win! With the help of God and of the Holy Virgin we shall surely win. History will once more record that the country glorified by Marathon and Salamis will never surrender.

Together, men, women and children of Hellas, rise up! Clench your fists. Stand at my side to defend your country. The Greeks of today and of tomorrow have to prove themselves worthy of their forefathers and of the generations to come.

Soldiers in the vanguard of that freedom which has sprung from the sacred soil of the Greeks, forward!

Forward, sons of Hellas! Into the fight with body and soul!

10 Caught in Gaming Raid Fined in Newton Court

Patrolman Joseph Charlton evidently hit upon the pass word yesterday, with the result that 10 men paid fines in Newton court today for gaming on Sunday.

Charlton rapped on the door of the Royal Rooters Club in Newton Center, and when a voice inquired sharly "Who is it?" he replied:

"It's me."

They let him in.

Four of the 10 paid fines of $10, the rest $5.

Subsequently, 12 other men seized in a Sunday raid on the Waltham Gun Club, Wabasso st., Auburndale, were arrigned on similar charges.

John R. Goulding, 42, of 53 Cheske ave., Newton, and eight others were charged with managing and assisting a gaming house and gaming on the Sabbath. The rest were charged with being present.

All pleaded not guilty

BABY IS BORN TO BRIDE, 11

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 7 (INS)—An 11-year-old child bride of a 22-year-old Virginia state highway worker, gave birth to a seven-pound baby boy in Alexandria Hospital.

The mother is Nancy McCarter, who married Donald McCarter of Fairfax, Va., last summer. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Stewart, of Blevantown, Va., who gave consent to the marriage, authorities said.

Crowded Palm Services Open Holy Week Worship

After solemn Palm Sunday services, a week-long observance of Holy Week, most sacred in the Christian church calendar, was inaugurated today in Catholic and Protestant churches

Masses will be held daily in some 300 Catholic churches in the Boston archdiocese, while noonday and evening services are scheduled in most Protestant churches.

The colorful rites symbolizing the triumphant entry of Christ into Jerusalem sounded a thought-provoking note this Palm Sunday, with Army uniforms conspicuous in most every church audience.

At Fort Devens, more than 2500 soldiers who remained in camp took part in services of both Catholic and Protestant faiths.

Cardinal O'Connell, nearing his 82d birthday anniversary, made his first public appearance since returning from a Florida vacation by presiding at the 10 a. m. mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

4 GUNMEN IN MATTAPAN HOLD UP FLEE WITH THEATER MANAGER'S $975

Four armed bandits, daring the peak of noon traffic in front of the U. S. Trust Co., Mattapan branch, today held up Irwin Miller, 20, assistant manager of the Morton theater, and escaped in a car with $975.12.

The bandit car roared away from Mattapan sq. in the direction of Milton, leaving Miller speechless on the sidewalk. The car was found later abandoned on Seaverns ave., Jamaica Plain, a short distance from the Jamaica Plain police station. The holdup men apparently had doubled back after felting the Milton flight.

The holdup was carefully planned, according to the police—two men spotting Miller at the theater and accompanying him on a street car to where he got off to enter the bank.

PAIR BOARDED CAR

Miller recalled that two men boarded the car with him at Morton st. and Bluehill ave. but paid no attention to them as he sat holding the week-end theater receipts in a bag.

He had no sooner stepped off the car at the trust company, when one of the men, flashing a pistol, snatched the bag from Miller's hands. The second man pushed him.

Both jumped into a car which had just pulled up alon the curb. Two otoher men were in the car.

IN STOLEN CAR

Miller caught the registration number of the car, but when the car was recovered, it was discovered by the police that this number had been placed on top of other plates. The second number plates are from a coach reported stolen April 3.

Miller told police the holdup happened so suddenly that he was able to describe only one of his assailants. The man who grabbed the money bag, he said, was short and stocky andw ore a light brown overcoat.

Gunman Leaps to Death At Norfolk Prison Colony

Shouting "So long" to a guard, Joseph S. Rizzo, 30, notorious gunman, leaped from the roof of the receiving building at Norfolk Prison Colony today and plunged three stories head first to death in the yard.

Rizzo, serving a sentence of 14 to 17½ years for robbery while armed of the Godfrey Coal Co. in Milton, Feb. 6, 1935, was on his way to an exercise cage on the roof with other prisoners when he made the dive.

Rizzo had a long record in crime that began at the age of 15 in Newark, N. J., his home State. It reached its climax in the sawed-off shot-gun holdup of the coal company with four confederates.

In Milton they held up three employes and made off with $560. A few days later Rizzo was arrested in Boston and confessed. His companions were captured in a Rutland sq., South End, room, where police uncovered guns, amunition and dynamite.

The dynamite, according to police, was to have been used to blast a wall of Dedham jail to free another of his pals.

On March 12, 1936, a no-bill was returned, however, by the grand jury on charges of conspiracy to break into Dedham jail to free James Wood, who was serving a sentence on a non-support charge.

Joss' Friends Turn Sleuths To Aid Him

RICHMOND, Me., April 7—Loyal friends of Dr. Merrill E. Joss today began their own exhaustive investigation into the slaying of his doctor-wife, 38-year-old Luverne Harris Joss, confident of his acquittal when the day of trial arrives.

With Dr. Joss remanded to jail without bail until sitting of the grand jury in June, the state likewise marshalled the forces of prosecution, calling on the very medical science that Dr. Joss knew so well to support their charge of murder.

Pathologists and other leaders in medical science have been enlisted for the testimony that is to come. Much of it, it was learned, will center about an injection and broken hypodermic needle found in the doctor's office shortly after his wife's murder.

At the same time, Mrs. Elizabeth Mayo, the "other woman in the case," according to charges by the state, appeared as usual in her role as proprietress of the Triple Spa.

4 CAMBRIDGE FIREMEN HURT AT $3000 FIRE

Four firemen were injured, one seriously, today at a two-alarm fire that badly damaged the old Newtowne Club in Porter sq., North Cambridge. Morning rush-hour traffic was tied up for more than an hour.

Firemen injured were:

LIEUT. JOHN DRYNAN, 40, of 64 Griswold st., Cambridge, attached to Rescue Company 1, fractured leg and shock.

MICHAEL MUNYAN, 48, of 4 Sherman st., Engine 8, deep laceration of right hand.

WILLIAM DOLLIVER, 40, of 110 Chilton st., North Cambridge, Engine 8, smoke inhalation and head lacerations.

OTIS D. POWERS, JR., 29, of 91 Aberdeen ave., Engine 4, lacerated chin and possible fractured jaw.

Origin of the $3000 blaze, which started in the cellar and seeped up through the rest of the unoccupied building, was undetermined.

Blinded by smoke, Lieut. Drynan was injured when he fell into the fire pit in front of the furnace in the cellar. He and Powers, who was accidentally struck on the chin by an axe, were held at Cambridge City Hospital for X-rays. The other two were treated and released.

First alarm was turned in by Patrolman Martin O'Rourke, who discovered the blaze about 7 a. m., while on traffic duty in Porter sq.

Air Alarm During Rites for Teleki

BUDAPEST, April 7 (INS)—A short air raid alarm sounded in Budapest today during funeral services for former Premier Count Pal Teleki, who committed suicide last week.

Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, led the funeral procession and walked with calm dignity, paying no attention to the screaming sirens that gave the alarm.

A huge crowd lining the streets to watch the procession remained at their places throughout the alarm.

With more than 400 junior police in attendance a solemn mass of requiem was celebrated today for Philip A. Moore, 14, of Oakland st., Brighton, at St. Columbkille's Church, Market st., Brighton. He died Thursday from injuries received when he was struck by a batted ball in a sandlot baseball game. The eight boys who were playing with him at the time served as pallbearers.

They were Joseph Bourgeois, William Vail, William O'Brien, Henry Cutler, Thomaas Winn, John Doherty, Peter Morely and Lazaro Cugini. The dead boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury.

A.W.O.L. Adventures Bring Grief to Two

Arrest by Somerville police terminated today the A. W. O. L. adventures of two Camp Edwards selectees with one turned over to army authorities and the other held in $15,000 bail for the grand jury.

Possession without a permit of a .45-calibre army revolver and the theft of two suits and a top coat from a Linwood st., Somerville, tailor shop, were the basis of police accusations against Samuel J. Clough, 19, of McGrath Highway, Somerville. The other youth, 18-year-old Lynwood A. Swanson, Hinston rd., East Weymouth, was given into custody of an Army lieutenant from Fort Banks.

The youths were found under the piazza of a house in Pearl ter., Somerville, by cruising car officers.

Camp Visitors View Army Day Display

Led by the snappy Yankee Division at Camp Edwards, the military in Massachusetts played host to the public today—Army Day.

HONEYMOON . . . ALONE—Ruth C. Lindbohn, 22, of Wollaston, eloped to Virginia with Marine Pvt. Herbert W. Johnson of Burlington, six weeks ago. Quick as the ceremony was over he was ordered back to duty. Now, the bride hopes he'll be given a transfer from Quantico to Boston . . . or a furlough.

Boston Evening American Photo

The occasion had an even greater significance this year for mothers, wives and friends, for it is the first observance of Army Day since the draft law called thousands of New Englanders to the colors.

Open house was being held at Fort Devens, with a band concert scheduled for 4 p. m., but the highlight celebration was scheduled at Camp Edwards, where units of the YD, some 7500 strong, will pass in review before Maj.-Gen. Roger W. Eckfeldt and his staff.

With the public invited to attend, the review was slated to start at 4:30 p. m. Brig.-Gen. Francis V. Logan, commanding the 52d brigade, will lead his troops, which will consist of the 104th and the 181st regiments of infantry, commanded by Col. John Higgins and Col. Roy W. Smith respectively. Under selective service, the Army in the state has grown from a few thousand to an estimated 65,000, and is still expanding.

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall, Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff and other military and political dignitaries will attend exercises, Wednesday, marking the opening of the new State Police barracks at Camp Edwards, it was announced yesterday. Public Safety Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney will preside.

Lynn Man Sought As Threat Suspect

A Lynn man was sought for questioning today after New Hampshire authorities reported that an automobile registered to him was probably used in connection with alleged death threats against Mrs. Harriet Sanborn of Rochester, N. H.

The car was discovered at West Lebanon, Me., where it had been abandoned when the driver ran out of gas. Meanwhile, a police guard was maintained at the home of Mrs. Sanborn, who was married last December to Guy R. Sanborn, a wealthy poultry dealer.

Alan Frazer's Father Dies in Medford

James A. Frazer, 72, father of Alan C. Frazer, Boston Herald staff reporter, died Sunday after an illness of more than a year at his son's home in Barnard rd., West Medford.

Besides his son Alan he leaves another son James A., Jr., and four grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at his home tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be in the Oak Grove cemetery, Medford.

Chelsea Bandit Suspect Held

Alleged to have participated in two holdups Saturday night, Raymond Bishop, 22, of Arlington st., Chelsea, was held in $10,000 bail on one of them today in Chelsea Court.

Bishop pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob while using a revolver.

He was allegedly one of a pair of bandits, one in garb resembling an army uniform, who held up James Spinelli, 27, clerk in the market of Bernard Kanter, 58, in Eastern ave., Chelsea.

Spinelli had just taken the money from the cash register, at the armed bandits' order, when Kanter came roaring out of the ice box, brandishing a cleaver.

In panic the bandit pair fled without the money, leaped into Kanter's car and sped away. A short time later the pair are accused of robbing a Revere filling station attendant of $1.05.

NO. 1 MILITARY PASS GIVEN TO BERT FORD

Before a group of his colleagues and ranking Army officers, Bert Ford, veteran staff member of the Record-American now covering Camp Edwards, today was presented with No. 1 military press pass from Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff, commanding the First Corps Area.

The ceremony took place in the office of Gen. Woodruff at the Army Base, with Col. Alexander R. Bolling, asst. chief of staff, G-2, assisting.

Gen. Woodruff expressed his pleasure in presenting the first military pass issued in this area to Bert Ford in view of his wide experience, general background and reputation.

Ford, who served overseas two years as a correspondent during the last war, thanked the general in behalf of himself and the editors of the Record-American, and assured him the pass would only be used in the best interests of the Army and the nation.

One of the most widely-known newspapermen in New England, Ford obtained his first experience as a correspondent at the Mexican border in 1916, his work being so outstanding that he was drafted by the International News Service to represent them during the World War.

U. S. Mediators Tackle Ford, Steel Labor Rows

chief of the Federal Conciliation service, turned from the soft coal negotiations to call union and management representatives to a conference on the U. S. Steel situation.

He said he "hoped and believed a way can yet be found" to head off a strike which the CIO steel workers organizing committee has called for midnight Tuesday. The union mainly wants 10 cents an hour more pay. The company, which employs 261,000, has offered 2½ cents.

Hopeful also were federal and state conciliators working to end a production tieup at Ford's vast River Rouge plant, whose operations are vital to $155,000,000 of defense orders.

James F. Dewey, federal conciliator, and Murray D. Van Wagoner, Michigan governor, said in a joint statement they hoped to get company and union representatives together not later than tomorrow.

WAGE RAISE ASKED

The union called the strike six days ago on the contention that the company dismissed employes for union activity. Further, the union demanded a contract, 10 cents an hour pay increase and fixed grievance procedure. The factory employs 85,000, and Ford assembly plants elsewhere in the nation depend on it for materials.

Quiet ruled at the Ford Rouge plant again this morning. Only 12 state policemen were on duty at the main gate—Gate 4—and the picket lines there had dwindled to about 50 unionists.

Principal issue of the Allis-Chalmers strike, union security, was covered in yesterday's agreement as follows:

"It is agreed that the fact that an employe is not a member of the union or is not a member in good standing shall not alone and in itself be cause for discipline in the absence of some other fact or facts showing that the status of and conduct on the company premises of such employe is interfering with shop discipline. It is expected that by union members remaining in good standing, such interference with shop discipline will be reduced."

Company and union agreed that disputes of a specified kind, generally those involving disciplinary questions, would be submitted to a referee. They will select one from a list made up by the mediation board, or if they cannot agree, the board will pick one for them.

WARNS OF FAILURE

The settlement followed by a day an assertion in New York by William S. Knudsen, director of defense production, that the strike had demonstrated how "radical leaders" could "show the state and the nation where to get off."

He added in a speech at a dinner of the Veterans of Foreign Wars that unless 90 per cent of defense production strikes were averted, the defense program would fail.

Demanding a closed shop and extra pay for holidays, 1700 employes of the Phelps-Dodge Copper Corp., holders of $30,000,000 in national defense contracts, went out on strike today.

Officials of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union announced that workers in the Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Los Angeles plants of the company "probably would take similar walkout action.

With the Allis-Chalmers strike out of the way the defense mediation board was left with three disputes unsettled out of eight which have been certified to it by the Labor Department.

These are the Cowles Tool Co., Cleveland, where 80 CIO United Automobile Workers ask wage-hour adjustments and a closed shop, the Standard Tool Co., Cleveland, where 650 CIO-UAW members made those demands plus a new bargaining agreement; and the Seas Shipping Co., New York, whose A. F. of L. marine engineers want a bigger bonus rate.

NEXT 100 DAYS SEEN VITAL TO U. S. DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—Asserting that the United States was 100 days from mass production of defense supplies, John D. Biggers declared today that "every industrial manager, every worker must realize that the history of the world may depend on what we all do in these 100 days."

Biggers, defense production director in the Office of Production Management, testified after Secretary Perkins had said that labor and employer had a responsibility to co-operate in avoiding delays in defense production.

DOLLAR YEAR MAN

Miss Perkins was the first witness in the committee's investigation of labor conditions in defense industries.

Biggers, a dollar-a-year man, declared that some manufacturers were "hoarding unwarranted stocks" of strategic materials through "selfishness" and thereby were creating a defense shortage, and added:

"Some union leaders, also prompted by selfishness, are sponsoring unnecessary strikes. They also are impeding our program."

Biggers called on all persons to "banish selfishness" and "put the interests of our country above our own."

The production chief called the United States the "greatest mass producer in the world" and said that "a great deal already has been achieved," but that a great effort still was necessary.

"We should not waste a day or an hour," he declared. "There must be maximum co-operation."

CITES DANGER

Miss Perkins said that there was a danger of "over-emphasizing as well as under-emphasizing" the labor situation in defense industries.

"We all realize," Miss Perkins said, "that there must be continuity of production in the defense program.

"Responsibility for stoppages of work does not fall solely upon labor or solely upon management. Where difficulty arises is when either or both parties fail to bargain in good faith.

"Lack of mutual confidence as between the particular employers and particular labor groups is usually at the back of failure to negotiate."

The secretary said that the Labor Department itself now was trying to settle the work stoppage in the soft coal industry and at the Ford Motor Co. in Detroit, and also was seeking to avert a stoppage at the United States Steel Corp.

ANALYST SEES HITLER'S FEAR AND CONFIDENCE SPURRING BALKAN DRIVE

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press Analyst

Hitler's attack in the Balkans indicates either supreme confidence or anxiety that delay would give the Allies a chance to gain strength and get set for action—and likely he is impelled by both these feelings.

Without doubt his hand was forced by Yugoslavia's refusal to bend the neck, by Turkey's refusal to desert her mutual defense pact with Britain, and by Russia's growing coolness toward the Axis. The Nazi chief probably felt that it was too risky to allow this potentially hostile group to coalesce.

He also is trying to beat out American aid to Britain and her allies. Our help has been his greatest fear and his gravest danger. He has had an unexpected break of luck in the considerable hold up of production in the United States and must he hoping that he will be able to crush the British-aided Balkans before American production can get going full steam.

MEAGER BATTLE NEWS

Thus far, news of this great offensive has been too meager to give much indication of how the battle goes. The Greeks appear to be holding gallantly and well at the point of invasion near the Struma river valley, but word from the north throws little light on the position.

There seems strong probability, however, that the German war machine will sweep swiftly across the open country in the northern half of Yugoslavia. Well-wishers of this big Balkan state must be prepared for that.

The proud capital of Belgrade, on the Danube, likely will be in the hands of the Nadis within a few hours. In recognition of this probability the government already has withdrawn southward and is believed to be in Skopije.

These events need not cause undue concern, however, since they have been anticipated. Yugoslavia's main stand must be made among the mountains in the southern portion of the country, and the high command has planned for that. It is unlikely that there will be any strong defense of the basin of the Danube or the wide valleys of its numerous tributaries.

GERMAN STRATEGY

German strategy thus far has followed the course expected. Several independent attacks have been launched against Yugoslav and Greek territory, after this fashion:

1—In the north a Nazi force has struck across the Yugoslav border from Austria into the valley of the Sava and is headed for the Croat capital of Zagreb.

2—Another German contingent has headed over the Hungarian border for Belgrade.

3—At the same time a second thrust at Belgrade is being made from Rumania.

4—From the vicinity of Sofia, Bulgaria, German forces are driving at Nis, and at Skopije in the Vardar valley.

5—Two Nazi contingents are attacking Greece from Bulgaria through the Struma valley.

The Nazi operations in Yugoslavia are calculated to gain quick control of the main railway system and highways of the country and thus pave the way for a drive down through the Vardar valley into Greece and against the great port of Salonika. The pushes across the Bulgarian border also are aimed at Salonika.

VITAL OBJECTIVE

Salonika is the vital objective of the moment, and therefore the vital point of defense for the Allies. This big port not only is the rail head for most of the important railways of the Balkans, but it gives Yugoslavia her sole access to the outside world not dominated by the Axis powers.

The fact that the Germans were compelled to attack Salonika through the Struma valley of Bulgaria, rather than through the Vardar valley of Yugoslavia, has given the Allies a far more advantageous position for defense. Had the Yugoslavs given in to Berlin, and allowed the Germans to use the Varder valley to attack Greece, the campaign might have been shortlived.

As it is, the Greeks and British have been able to throw their defenses east of Salolika, close to the Struma valley. It is here that the Allies are reported to be holding well against a fierce assault.

A late dispatch says the Yugoslavs have begun a bombardment of the Albanian frontier and are preparing to drive into that country in an effort to complete the Greek defeat of the Italians. The German attacks toward Nis and Skopije also contemplate carrying aid to the Fascists in Albania.

NAZIS CLAIM GREEKS, SLAVS PUSHED BACK

lished, it was said, the Germans plan to sweep northwestward across Yugoslavia to the Adriatic, with the apparent intention of isolating Greece from Yugoslavia and aiding the Italian troops battling Greeks in Albania.

So far as could be determined, a major push against Salonika is already under way. Only a few hours before the German offensive began, high quarters in Berlin began to predict "another Dunkirk" for the British established there—with far less chance of a successful evacuation.

All present military movements were cloaked in secrecy. However, it was learned that in addition to the offensives described above, another German push is rolling out of occupied Bulgaria in a southwesterly direction toward the main Yugoslav defenses in lower Serbia.

This push is expected to cut the vital railway lines connecting Belgrade with Greece. Another advance was reported from Austrian Styria toward Zagreb.

Rugged mountain ranges, wide rivers, poor roads and lack of transportation place all sorts of obstacles in the path of the German troops.

As reports reached here from Rome of Italian air bombings of the Yugoslavian ports of Kotor and Split, German officialdom charged that British submarines were using these harbors as naval bases.

Nazis Mowed Down As Greek Lines Hold

the front," the Greek high command announced.

Berlin gave a different picture. Without revealing definite gains, Hitler's high command asserted that the Nazi advance into both Balkan nations was "proceeding on schedule against stubborn resistance."

The Germans said Yugoslavia's capital, Belgrade, had been subjected to a fourth heavy bombing attack during the night and left aflame.

SLAVS ATTACK SOFIA

DNB, the official German news agency, quoted the Bulgarian air command as saying Yugoslav bombers had attacked the open cities of Sofia and Kustendil, Bulgaria, killing several women and children.

Hitler's high command listed "enemy" plane losses in the opening day of the new conflict at 102, including 35 bagged in aerial combat.

Italy joined in the hostilities. The Fascist air force reported it had bombed the Yugoslav naval bases of Split (Spalato) and Cattaro, an arsenal and an air base.

TURKEY STILL NEUTRAL

Turkey remained neutral as German panzer divisions stormed into neighboring Greece, but the official Turkish radio declared Germany's given reasons for the attack "do not satisfy anyone."

"It is apparent who brought war to the Balkans," the radio said, adding that German strategy appeared to be aimed at Yugoslavia's "waist"—the important rail junction city of Nis in the Vardar river valley—in the hope of slicing Yugoslavia in two.

Soviet Russia, linked to Yugoslavia by a newly-signed pact of friendship and non-aggression, likewise remained calm, but the newspaper Izvestia commented that Yugoslavia's efforts to secure peace "could not help but arouse the sympathy of the Soviet Union."

The Greeks reported they were standing firm in the vital Struma River valley near the Bulgarian frontier and had inflicted heavy losses on the Nazi ground troops in "one of the greatest epics in Greek history," but the Germans said they were continuing their advance.

ENEMY HALTED, SAY GREEKS

Athens admitted the Germans had made some progress and overpowered one Greek outpost, but declared a striking force ten times their number had been halted in the drive toward the Aegean seaport of Salonika, where thousands of British troops have been landing to aid the Greeks.

The Greeks claimed destruction of ten German tanks, five or six planes, and said a number of Nazi prisoners had been taken.

Berlin, Budapest and Rome severed communications with the outside world for 24 hours as a military precaution. Yugoslav points, however, were still cut off.

German reports said great fires were raging in the "fortress of Belgrade" which the Yugoslavs said last week they would declare an open city in event of hostilities. The railway station area was smashed, bridges blown up, communications center damaged, and a troop train hit by bombs, they said.

Fran Kulovic, Yugoslav public works minister, was reported killed.

Yugoslav ground resistance was weak and easily overcome, German reports said.

But military experts said Yugoslavia never intended to try to hold the flat northern part of the country so vulnerable to the highly mobile German units.

Rumanian radio reports told of Yugoslav air attacks on that German-occupied country but minimized the damage. Another report said Rumania had ordered general mobilization.

The Belgrade government was believed to have fled to Skolpje, Vardar river valley city in southern Yugoslavia.

Apparently Serb tactics called for delaying battles in the north until the army could retire to the natural mountain defenses in the south and west.

Britain finally acknowledged landing a large army of English, Australian and New Zealand fighters in Greece to "stand in line with the soldiers of our brave ally in defense of their native soil."

CROWDS GATHER

In Athens great crowds gathered before the British and American legations to cheer and it was obvious the people expected material aid from both countries in their unequal struggle with Germany.

In Washington Secretary of State Cordell Hull after conferring with President Roosevelt denounced Germany's Balkan invasion as "barbaric" and promised material assistance would be dispatched to the Greeks and Yugoslavs "as speedily as possible."

Indications were that munitions and guns drawn from U. S. Army stores and medical supplies would be sent today or by mid-week at the latest on Yugoslav ships now in American ports.

Greece was given a note by Germany to the effect the attack on her was to oust British troops and thus liberate her.

This was not true in the case of Yugoslavia. German ground and air forces sprang to the attack as German officials made a declaration charging the Serbs with atrocities against Germans and forming a "government of intrigue" to conspire with Britain.

Germans were told that Yugoslavia's behavior was all the more strange because Germany had offered Yugoslavia a piece of Greek territory, the Aegean port of Salonika. But still Belgrade refused to go along with Axis plans to remake Europe.

BULLETINS

BUDAPEST, April 7 (INS)—The Belgrade radio still was on the air up until noon today. Every 30 minutes, a brief message was broadcast advising that the city had been bombed by German war planes.

GENEVA, April 7 (INS)—The population of Algeciras, Spain, which lies across the bay from Gibraltar, is being evacuated, the Journal de Geneva reported from Vichy today. The report was interpreted as indicating early extension of the war to Spain.

ROME, April 7 (INS)—All communications between Italy and the outside world, including Germany, will be suspended from 8 p. m. tonight until 7 a. m. tomorrow for military reasons, it was announced today.

BERLIN, April 6 (Delayed) (AP) — DNB, official German news agency, reported from Sofia today that Bulgarian authorities had ordered a blackout for the whole nation.

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—A German radio announcement heard today by NBC said all prominent Germans in Yugoslavia were arrested by Yugoslav officials shortly before dawn Sunday. German refugees arriving in Rumania from Yugoslavia were quoted as saying those arrested were threatened with death, and some were beaten.

SOFIA, April 7 (INS)—The Bulgarian government lodged a sharp protest with Belgrade today against alleged Yugoslav bombing of "open towns" in Bulgaria yesterday, it was announced officially today. Bulgarian air defense authorities reported Yugoslav bombers yesterday attacked the open cities of Sofia and Kuestendil, dropping bombs on non-military objectives and killing a number of women and children.

Addis Ababa In British Hands

CAIRO, April 7 (INS)—British troops today held Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia and core of Italy's vast East African empire.

And in an unprecedented gesture, Italys' highest representative in the plateau city of 170,000 offered his thanks to the British for their protection of the city's women and children against possible massacre at the hands of the natives.

As the British entered the city, the Italian viceroy, the Duke of Aosta sent this message to Lieut. Gen. A. G. Cunningham:

"His Royal Highness, the Duke of Aosta, wishes to express his appreciation of the initiative taken by Gen. Wavell and Lieut. Gen. Cunningham regarding the protection of women and children in Addis Ababa, demonstrating the strong bonds of humanity and race still existing between the two nations."

BRITAIN'S INCOME TAX NOW 50 P. C.

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—Britain called upon her people—rich and poor—today t pay a 50 per cent income tax toward financing the war under a record budget estimate of 4,207 000,000 pounds (about $16,828,000,000).

This budget was called "domestic expenditure" because the figure does not take into account material to come from the United States under the aid-to-democracies act.

Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer said: "Amounts of payments in the United States under existing orders before the end of the financial year (March 31, 1942) will be far beyond the figure of £5,000,000,000 ($20,000,000,000) which I have seen mentioned in various quarters." The estimate also excluded payments to be made to the United States under existing orders.

The limit of tax exempt income was lowered by 10 pounds ($40) and 110 pounds ($440) a year to add 2,000,000 low-wage earners to the tax rolls.

Sir Kingsley, in effect, also inaugurated a compulsory savings scheme to fit in with his income tax boost.

This was done by lowering personal exemptions so that a married man must pay tax on all income over £140 ($560) annually instead of £170 ($680), and single persons on all over £80 ($320) instead of £100 ($400). Allowance for earned income was reduced from the present one-sixth to one-tenth, with a maximum of £150 ($600) permitted.

The extra tax resulting from these reductions, Sir Kingsley said, would be credited to the account of the individual in a postoffice savings bank after the war. This post-war credit, he explained, should be regarded by workers as an addition to, and not substitution for, present savings.

U. S. Hastens to Send Greeks, Slavs Supplies

through the West African port of Bathurst in the last two months.

First official reaction to Germany's dawn attack yesterday came in a statement from Secretary Hull assuring Yugoslavia of all possible assistance. Since the government already had announced such a policy for Greece, Hull, fresh from a conference with President Roosevelt, directed his declaration chiefly to the newest victim of the European war.

"The barbaric invasion of Yugoslavia and the attempt to annihilate that country by brute force," he said, "is but another chapter in the present planned movement of attempted world conquest and domination."

He asserted that the American people have the greatest sympathy for the nation which has been thus so outrageously attacked," and he added:

"This government with its policy of helping those who are defending themselves against would-be conquerors is now proceeding as speedily as possible to send military and other supplies to Yugoslavia."

Simultaneously, the government moved to provide such assistance as it could to American citizens in the embattled country. The total of these could not be determined immediately, officials said, but more than 2000 were reported in Belgrade alone.

Hull directed Arthur Bliss Lane, the United States minister, to remain with the Yugoslavian government whether it stayed in Belgrade or moved to some provisional capital, but he ordered the legation in Belgrade kept open at all times to take care of Americans who might need help.

TOWANDA, Pa., April 7 (AP)—The little "china doll" today displayed a cast for the first time in four months—and that's a long interval for 7-year-old Clara Hall to be without any broken bones.

SEVERE BLOWS DEALT SLAVS, ITALIANS SAY

By PERCY WINNER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, April 7 (INS)—Italian land, sea and air attacks against Yugoslavia were announced by the Italian high command today.

Two destroyers of undisclosed nationality were sunk in Yugoslavian harbors, a munitions dump was blown up, three steamers were sunk, harbor establishments were blasted and enemy warplanes destroyed in a series of heavy attacks on Yugoslavian territory, an official war bulletin stated.

At the port of Split, two steamers of medium tonnage were sunk. Two destroyers, a swimming dock and a steamer were sunk at Kotor and a munitions dump was blown up near Bedalo.

The Yugoslavian air base at Mostar "suffered severe damage," according to the communique which said bridges, railways and roads were bombed.

Italian officials, meanwhile, emphasized legality of the Axis position in the Balkans.

Virginio Gayda, Mussolini's editor, said:

"We deplore this new conflict, provoked by a conspiracy between Serbian militarists and Anglo-Saxon imperialists.

"Italy is fighting a war of national defense against Serb aggression, caused by a fantastic ambition for territorial aggrandizement and the desire for arrogant hegemony by generals and ecclesiastical and political groups."

GREEKS HOLD OFF GERMANS IN NEW MOUNTAIN ASSAULTS

ATHENS, Greece, April 7 (AP)—Short on men and arms, but long on courage, Greek infantrymen withstood fresh assaults of Germany's mechanized might today in narrow Macedonian mountain passes spotted with the wreckage of 10 German tanks destroyed in the first day of warfare.

A high command communique reported the most furious fighting in Struma gorge, which was said to be strewn with German dead as the Greeks held doggedly to their defenses against combined blows of the Luftwaffe and Nazi land forces.

With the motto "They shall not pass," the Greeks stopped the German invasion with the loss of but one fort, the high command announced, although the Nazis gained some ground in a day of "fiercest fighting."

ATHENS HAS NEW AIR ALARM

Athens had its second air raid alarm today since Sunday morning and thousands stood in the streets to watch a German plane race over amid bursts of anti-aircraft fire. No bombs fell.

A government spokesman said bodies of Nazi dead were piled high before Greek positions after the German Palm Sunday invasion from Bulgaria.

Savage air battles over the fighting ground troops today cost the Germans at least 11 planes, it was stated officially. Several others were declared damaged.

The newspaper Kathimerini said an irregular band of Bulgarians joined in the battle this morning against Greek forces in the mountains, but was captured.

King George, the Crown Prince and Crown Princess and Premier Alexandros Korizis visited Piraeus to look at the damage caused by a German air raid last night. The king drove his own car through an air raid alarm to the seaport.

"Our fortifications, in spite of violent artillery shelling and divebombing of the enemy air force, have resisted, with the exception of one which fell after a particularly strong attack," the high command communique asserted.

Some ground, it added, was evacuated by Greek force "for reason of operations."

5 NAZI PLANES DOWNED

Ten "enemy" tanks and five or six "enemy" aircraft were said to have been destroyed and "some" prisoners taken.

A formation of Hurricanes cruising over the Rupel pass area in Bulgaria yesterday shot down five German Messerschmitt 109s yesterday, the Royal Air Force announced, with no British losses. One "enemy" plane was shot down over Athens.

The high command said the Greek positions were defended only by "very small Greek forces" and a spokesman declared:

"We are fighting against forces ten times superior, against mechanical implements a hundred times greater, but our soldiers are holding fast, even though German airplanes rage over their heads."

LONDON, April 7 (INS)—Exchange Telegraph News Agency quoted the Swiss radio as saying that Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka was cutting short his European visit and returning to Tokyo on urgent business.

In another dispatch, quoting the Ankara radio, Exchange said that Matsuoka would spend a few days in Moscow before returning to Tokyo.

Silk Tops New Casino Revue

A burlesque favorite for more years than he cares to add up, Frank X. Silk, comedian and wit, is the four-star attraction in the new Ed Ryan burlesque production opening today at the Casino Theater on Hanover st.

Nora Ford

Silk is credited with creating many of the famous comedy situations in burlesque. He is paramount in his field and is double - indemnity against ennui in a theater. Teamed with him is Harry Seymour, another well-known along the circuit who has amused countless audiences over a great many years.

Balancing the comedy are the revue's three featured charmers, Nora Ford, Petite Carroll and Jerri McCauley, representing as many types of feminine pulchritude and alike only in their all-around vivacity and pep.

Elinor Walent, Bob Rogers, Lee Marmer and Fred Lewis are other featured entertainers. And, of course, the 30 Casino dancing-dolls will introduce new and eye-popping dance ensembles. Two recently screen releases round out the program.

Nova-Baer Fight At the Old South

Marches Happy Over New Play

The Fredric Marches — that is, Fredric March and Florence Eldridge—are perhaps two of the most thorough people in the world. They are also two of the most versatile and workmanlike people on stage or screen.

And so, having examined one side of a coin two years ago, it's only natural to find them turning it over now for a look at the opposite intaglio.

Two years ago it was, although it seems last week, that the Marches were giving a colorful lesson in patriotism at the Center Theater in New York. "The American Way" was the title of that particular extravaganza. Mr. March was impersonating a kindly German immigrant by the name of Martin Gunther. Mrs. March, of course, was the staunch and ingratiating Mrs Gunther.

Now, as of 1941, in the Theater Guild's production of Sophie Treadwell's comedy, "Hope for a Harvest," which opens a two-week run at the Colonial tonight, these same Marches are on the other side of the fence.

First of all, the setting of "Hope for a Harvest" is about as far as it is possible to get from Ellis Island and stay in the United States—in the San Joaquin Valley of California. And as Elliott Martin and Carlotta Thatcher the Marches will be impersonating modern representatives of a family that settled the valley in 1846.

It was in the summer of 1928 when the Marches drove across the continent and landed smack up against the Pacific. They had no very precise plans then. They had been married only the spring before.

"We went out there," March says, "just to look around. We were curious, I guess, in the same way early settlers were curious."

The first thing the male representative of the family knew, he was cast in the cast of "The Royal Family" at the El Capitan Theater on Hollywood Boulevard.

After appearing in several pictures, the news got around that March could act. And in a whiff, something like ten years, he had appeared in forty-odd pictures and won an Academy Award. This somewhat impaired the Marches' intention of acting on the stage together.

Broadway together — finally it came three years ago.

Charmaine Comes To Globe on Friday

The "Dangerous Curves Ahead" sign is being readied backstage at the Globe Theater against the scheduled engagement of the incomparable Charmaine, burlesque's champion charmer, who arrives with the new traveling burlesque show opening Friday.

But four days remain in which to catch the current hit revue, with its star-spangled cast headed by Renee, Joyce Braezelle, Elaine Lovlie and Billy Fields.

HELEN PAMMER will be the featured dancer of "The Crazy Show of 1941," opening Thursday at the RKO Boston.

'Crazy Show' Here Thursday

Featured dancer in "The Crazy Show of 1941," new stage show due Thursday at the RKO Boston Theater, is Helen Pammer, beauteous blonde, who will share the spotlight with the starring "Clown Prince of Swing," Milt Britton, and America's Nuttiest Orchestra.

"The Crazy Show of 1941" has been hailed as a thoroughly mad, maniacal melange of mirth and melody. This is understandable when it is discovered that Nan Rae and Mrs. Waterfall of the Kate Smith radio hour and seen here in the "Follies Bergere," are prominently spotted in the nonsense.

"Mr. Dynamite," starring Lloyd Nolan is to be the first-run screen feature starting Thursday.

HOPE-CROSBY-LAMOUR MUSICAL COMEDY MAKES MET FILM PATRONS HAPPY

Bing and Bob In Africa Jaunt

By PEGGY DOYLE

The triple threat of Hope, Crosby and Lamour in "The Road to Zanzibar," which transported Metropolitan Theater audiences from the sublime to the ridiculous without missing a performance, has the management anticipating one of the season's best weeks.

With the tiarah-rah set and the prima donna's departure, following Saturday night's opera swan-song, the recherche Metropolitan has again become the democratic Met, where wags have succeeded Wagner and crooners have replaced coloraturas.

And great was the rejoicing among yesterday's opening-show regulars! There were howls of delight when Dorothy Lamour first appeared on the screen. The Lamour, however, temporarily, has exchanged her sarong for a fistful of fern-fronds and is still looking too, too devoone, in the freely expressed opinion of her loudly admiring Met fans.

As far as your reporter is concerned, Miss Lamour can twirl her sarong or flutter her fernery elsewhere and out of sight, a purely personal opinion and obviously not shared by the boys and girls—and a few black velvet neckbanded dowager converts from the past week — who thronged the theater all day yesterday.

As we were saying, we can skip Lamour but, what's more, we will even endure her if Paramount will give us Crosby and Hope, as inevitable a teaming as the well-known Brothers Smith.

Frankly, their "Road to Singapore," was much more amusing going than is this, their second co-starrer for Paramount. "Zanzibar" falls far short of its predecessor in the way of originality and bounce, demanding yeoman service from the ace comedy twosome.

This trip finds the pair stranded in South Africa. Crosby plays a freakshow impresario and Hope, his thoroughly discontented sideshow star. Hope can hardly wait to get back to the States and sane living but no sooner have they saved enough for the fare home than Crosby spends it on a diamond mine.

With life at its darkest, Hope comes up with a purchaser for the mine. Pocketing a head-lettuce of greens again, the two team up with Lamour and Una Merkel on a millionaire-pursuing safari.

From there until the penultimate sequence, the Hope-Crosby luck is all bad. The girls do a walkout, they fall into the hands of a man-eating tribe of savages and it looks like death in the afternoon a la soup-kettles for the poohbahs of persiflage.

The script boys need take no bows for this one, which is destined to do good boxoffice entirely on the merits of the inimitable Crosby-Hope comedy sense and timing and the customers' undoubted partiality for the Lamour.

For the second feature, there is "Dead Men Tell," latest in the Charlie Chan screen series starring Sidney Toler.

NANCY McCORD, one of the stage's most charming prima donnas, will be prominently featured in next Monday night's revival of "Rose Marie," at the Shubert.

FREDRIC MARCH is deserting Hollywood for the Hub in favor of Sophie Treadwell's new American comedy, "Hope for a Harvest," opening tonight at the Colonial.

"TOBACCO ROAD," with Sheila Brent in a featured role, begins a fortnight's engagement—its third in Boston—at the Plymouth Theater a week from tonight.

Barton Never Eats Dinner

John Barton asserts he is the only man in the world who never eats dinner. It takes Barton two and a half hours to transform himself from a comparatively youthful appearing man into the ragged old sharecropper, Jeeter Lester, which he portrays in "Tobacco Road," coming to the Plymouth Theater a week from tonight.

As a result, Barton must be in the theater every evening at 6 o'clock. It is too early to eat dinner then and, as it takes him an hour to remove his makeup, it is midnight before he leaves the theater and it is too late to eat it then.

"I'm forced to live the season through on sandwiches," says the veteran actor. "I've tried them all . . . ham, cheese, tongue, chicken salad, egg salad, roast beef, bologna, salami, mutton . . . and if anyone can give me the recipe for a sandwich I've not already tried I'll exchange it for seats to our performance."

STAR PERSONALITIES HEAD SPARKLING FLOOR REVUE TONIGHT

Dorgans and Log Cabin Offer Fun, Entertainment

By SAM BERENSON

Before the experts get around to picking the "Ten Best Dressed Women of 1941" we suggest that these gentlemen spend an evening at one of the Hub's night spots . . . where they'll find that after-dark smartness is not limited to entertainers, for the feminine guests are currently displaying some of the most exciting clothes-styling these eyes have yet beheld.

The spirit of informality still holds at our-sit-up plaisances, but nevertheless there's an increasing emphasis on evening attire . . . Easter may be just around the corner, but the gals, bless them, have beaten the Easter fashion demands to the punch.

Pat Rooney, 2nd favorite dancing star for five decades, opens a two weeks' engagement at the Latin Quarter tonight. As gay and agile as ever, Pat Rooney still possesses the dancing magic that made him a star at the age of ten. He and George M. Cohan have long been Boston's favorite male theater entertainers. Others on the bill which shapes up as an unusually good one are Franklyn D'Amore, a lad with an amazing specialty; Frances Urban, clever musical and dancing star; Harry Spear; the Four Gentlemen from the Latin Quarter ballet. Tony Bruno and Don Dudley as usual for dancing . . . To Jack Brown's Casa Manana comes one of the country's gayest midget acts, Herman's Twelve Midgets . . . here's novelty entertainment that you'll like . . . smart entertainment of a fast-moving pace, with capable rhythms of the Lou Carter band . . . bossman Jack Brown giving special attention to the boys in the service . . . splendid idea.

Gaiety in the Manhattan mood swings in to the popular Versailles this evening . . . A top-notch revue with bold billing going to Pat Rooney 3rd . . . Pat is well known in these parts and his style of tap dancing should draw much applause from the patrons . . . the torrid trumpeting of Bobby Hackett makes dancing at the Versailles one of the outstanding pleasures of this village . . . Barney Epper's party was a huge success . . . And at the Cocoanut Grove, Maestro Mickey Alpert backgrounds a new dazzle revue that dances into this rendezvous come sundown . . . Here's a show modeled to your liking, sparkling with gaiety and brilliance with enough variety to warrant a repeat visit . . . And don't forget the Thursday theatrical guest nights under the Alpert direction . . . Benny Goodman goes long-haired again . . . To become guest conductor for an evening of the Philadelphia Symphony at Robin Hood Dell.

FRANKLYN D'AMORE & ANITA
Latin Quarter Dancers

From Cappy's in No. Easton comes word that on Wednesday the 16th, he will present Bunny Berigan . . . he intends to feature a name band every Wednesday evening . . . this week's show one of the best he has had this season . . . the Ken club's lineup this week include many of the favorite club stars in the town with funnyman Russ Howard continuing on as emcee . . . Frankie (Sunrise Serenade) Carle is still too sick . . . Frankie attempted to rejoin Horace Heidt but had to give up after one night.

Nice goings-on at the Hotel Essex Grill Room where another banner show lies in the offing for the week . . . you'll like the delightful color of this revue . . . fast-paced and plenty attractive . . . and a reminder that Miss Crowning Glory is selected every Wednesday . . . contestants for the title should apply to Billy Kelly . . . An attractive offering at Dorgan's Old Harbor House where plenty of fun in a delightful setting is the standard fare . . . an engaging seashore atmosphere.

Barbeque chicken at the Hi-Hat is so-so-good . . . and for those who want to dance the Hi-Hat management offers Pete Herman and his men of rhythm . . . these fast moving floor shows at the Beacon street Alpini's are drawing much comment . . . the Eddie Watson music . . . Manager Pio Pini reports the best theatrical business in years . . . Fred Soracco personally supervises club Vanity Fair's cuisine.

Mickey Redstone, guiding hand of the smart Mayfair, announces that Archie Robbins of Manhattan's successful comedy "Private Rooms" and sensational comedian of Leon & Eddie's returns to the Mayfair after a successful run at the Florida spots . . . a one week engagement . . . Lynn, Royce, and Vanya, ballroom dancers, are held over . . . a well rounded program . . . with the Ranny Weeks' rhythm . . . "I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

In Spring a young man's fancy turns towards romance but my fancy turns towards keepin' customers happy as usual and presentin' my regular "sock" shows! The Dancin' Donovans are back in the show in my Grill. They do a terrific tap dance to somethin' called "Poet and Peasant Overture," and they were here before when I wuz in Miami. The boys talked so much about 'em that I've got 'em here again. George Evans and Kitty, comedy dancers from the 600 Club in Chicago, are more new faces in the opera in my Grill and Jerry McKay, the singin' mc from Texas is still goin' swell.

Friday night did I have laughs! I took two carloads of entertainers to Camp Devens—Sadie Perry and the whole mob and we did a show for the boys at the First Division Theatre.

I've got action seven days a week in my Grill and El Tropico Room, startin' every day at noon with Don Humbert still broadcastin' every day at 3:15 P. M. from the Grill with Chick Harris' Gentlemen of Swing in the best program on WHDH.

Yesterdy was my fourth anniversary here on Essex Street—flowers poured in like it was a funeral parlor, but I'm still alive and goin' strong, and also the eighth birthday of my little daughter, Marion Ort. Lots of folks are comin' in for the nifty luncheon and dinner specials my chefs are puttin' on for only a half a buck. Be good to yourself and dine with Izzy at Ort's Grill and the El Tropico Room at 25 Essex St. Advt.

ILLUSTRATED ABOVE is a leg-swinging exercise guaranteed to slim inches off the hips.

A New Figure for Spring

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If you expect to get your hips down three inches this spring, you'll have to get busy. But if you will exercise every day, you can trim an inch a week off this measurement—and the improvement in your figure will be amazing.

It may be that reduction will be enough to make your hipline conform to the laws of symmetry, which demand that the hips shall not exceed the waist by more than 11 inches, or the bust by more than three inches.

The fastest working hip reducer is leg swinging, with the legs raised to an angle of 45 degrees.

POSITION: Stand with one hand on the back of a chair or the top of a table for support.

MOVEMENT: Swing the outer leg from the hip, up in front and away up in back. Bend the trunk forward to increase the backward swing. Start off with 25 counts for each leg and gradually work up to 100 counts for each. When you have finished, shake the legs loosely from the hips to free the muscles from tension.

A SPECIAL ROUTINE

If the hips are out bustle fashion, the trouble may be a sway back, in which case you need special exercise to strengthen the abdominal muscles and to align your posture. This exercise not only tones the gluteus maximus, but also strengthens the abdominal muscles:

POSITION: Lie face downward on the floor, head resting on folded arms, legs straight down.

MOVEMENT: Keeping knees straight, raise alternate legs from the hips as high in the air as possible. Hold, release, and slowly lower to floor. Do this exercise accurately and you will be delighted with the results.

The following exercise firms the inner and outer thigh muscles and slims the hips:

POSITION: Lying on floor on side, head resting on folded arm, other hand in front of chest on floor for support.

MOVEMENT: Raise top leg high in the air. Hold. Lower. Repeat 12 times, reverse sides and perform 12 counts with the other leg. Rest. Now from the same position, lying on side, make large circles, keeping knee straight and circling from the hips. Circle 12 counts in one direction, then 12 counts in the other. Reverse sides and circle with other leg.

To smooth the hips, roll. Lie full length on the floor, roll straight over the hips and come to a stop on the side, then roll back across hips to the opposite side. Roll 25 counts, later 50.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has advised Congress to keep down all non-defense expenditures.

In spite of that warning, the Senate Appropriations Committee is formulating a "farm relief" bill that will cost $1,340,000,000.

This figure runs $450,000,000 higher than the House bill.

It is $445,000,000 more than was recommended in the President's budget.

It is $304,000,000 in excess of last year's appropriation.

Little or no attention seems to be paid by the committee to the fact that the AAA has shown that farm-buying power is EQUAL TO THAT OF 1929.

Congress is never a rubber-stamp when it is throwing away the people's money.

It knows how to assert its prerogatives every time political squandermania is concerned.

And that applies, in many instances, to our legislatures and local treasuries in their administration of tax funds which have been squeezed from all of us in increasing amounts.

These whoopee spenders of public money forget that what they are wasting is the very life-blood of the nation—PRIVATE INCOME.

TOO MANY BOSTONIANS forget that they live in a seacoast city.

They can discuss the newest popular novels, the latest happenings in Hollywood and all that is going on in New York cafe society.

But they know practically nothing about the Port of Boston.

This is one of the reasons why former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald finds it necessary to make the following constructive criticism:

"The other day," says Mr. Fitzgerald, "I saw in the papers that the Lawley Shipbuilding Company of Dorchester had received some government contracts for small boats, and had been obliged to hire 80 skilled men in New York to come to Boston because the company could find no skilled labor in this city.

"I could hardly believe this news when I read it, so I telephoned the Lawley firm and talked with Mr. Edward D. Whiting, who is in charge of the work.

"Mr. Whiting told me that it was true that the company had been compelled to go to New York for ship-fitters because this trade was not taught in any of the local schools with the exception of a small class at Fore River, which was maintained for that company's own yards."

Boston should be the greatest shipbuilding center on the Atlantic coast.

We ought to provide continuous employment for thousands of properly trained men.

But first, we shall have to appreciate our great natural assets and then make a determined effort to develop them.

The South and West may lure away our textile industry and other important activities.

But no other part of the country can ever grab the Atlantic ocean and our unsurpassed port.

We should realize that fact.

EVERY AMERICAN wants the United States to be strong enough to resist attack by dictator and aggressor nations.

BUT HOW MANY AMERICANS ARE AWARE THAT AN EVEN MORE DANGEROUS ENEMY LURKS IN OUR MIDST?

Because the number is not large we quote briefly from a recent and powerful address delivered by Dr. C. J. Koerth of San Antonio, Tex., eminent medical authority.

Dr. Koerth says:

"Our radios hourly bring us news of the inhumanities in Europe, and we are stirred; our hearts go out to these unfortunate people. That is the American in us, I guess; and yet, right here in our own United States, we have with us an enemy more relentless, more deadly than any bomb dropped by the dictators of Europe.

"There are no air-raid shelters, no warnings, just slow, miserable death, and no indignation by the public when you have been attacked and slain by this foe.

"I am talking about tuberculosis."

Dr. Koerth does not exaggerate the deplorable situation.

According to the latest census there are more than 630,000 ACTIVE cases of tuberculosis in this country.

Every single case represents an economic loss to the nation of more than $4000.

It is true of course that some progress has been made in stamping out the disease.

From 200 annual deaths per hundred thousand it has been reduced to 49 in the past generation.

But it is still the principal taker of human life, the REAL PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1.

We should double and redouble our efforts to eradicate it.

On The Side

BOYS of Avenue A, Manhattan, have long been known for their appreciation of feminine beauty. (Remember Ada Lewis singing "I'm De Belle of Avenue A"?) Every year the Avenue A lads hold a "Little Sister Beauty Contest." In this the big brothers proudly enter their little sisters. Some idea, what? Why not try it in your neighborhood. Little sisters between the age of three and seven are eligible and there are prizes for "Queen of the Show." That goes to the best all around little sister on Avenue A. Other prizes are for "Most Beautiful Blonde," "Most Beautiful Brunette," "Nicest Smile," "Prettiest Curls" and "Prettiest Eyes." Well, Sonny, what chance do you think your little sister would have in a contest like that. Maybe she would win and get a movie contract.

PLEASE NOTE: It's nice for the American girls to be knitting sweaters for British soldiers but from what I hear the lads in the United States Army could use some sweaters, too . . . Swedes are the world's best coffee makers . . . Several plane disasters have occurred because pilots were trying blindly to land a plane in a fog. There's a device for blind landing of planes that has been proven practical. Why don't the airlines use it?

PASSING BY: Kate Smith. Radio lark. Trotting along with her is Freckles, her cocker spaniel. Among celebrated women cocker spaniels and dachshunds seem most popular breeds. I know a woman who has both a spaniel and a dachshund. These dogs seemingly hate each other. I think that is usually the case when two dogs have one mistress or master.

ALFRED LUNT AND LYNN FONTANNE
Their Success Refutes Film Colony Superstition

CONFIDENTIAL: Hollywood production experts are against having a husband and wife star combination in the same picture. They say it is "a bad box office idea." It wasn't so bad for Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, who starred in one of the most successful series of pictures in film history. The man and wife star combination of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne also seems to be doing all right at the box office . . . How long have you been riding in or driving automobiles? Ah, so you think you're an old timer. All right, did you ever ride in an Apperson Jack Rabbit, Ben Hur, Browniecar, Gearless Steamer, Hupmobile, Moline Knight, Scripps-Booth, Pope-Hartford or Saxon? What I started this item for was to find out if anybody present had ever ridden in or driven that horseless carriage known as the Kerosene Motor Surrey. This bus derived its power from kerosene oil.

ASIDES: Writes a young matron of Chicago: "When my husband said he had a racetrack betting system with which he could make one hundred dollars a day with a capital of a hundred dollars, everybody said he was crazy. He was." Joe Louis hopes to retire from the ring next fall an undefeated champion. War seems to have made Berlin, Germany a boom town, too. Is reported a recent Sunday edition of a Berlin newspaper carried 17 pages of "Help Wanted" ads.

-:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday—Before I left New York City on Friday, I had an opportunity in the morning to go into the gallery of the Associated American Artists, at 711 Fifth ave.

Two charming little sculptured horses met my gaze as I stepped out of the elevator, reminiscent of some horses carved in pine wood which had been given to me—and I found they were done by the same young artist from St. Louis, Mo.

Then the collection of prints and lithographs which are being sold for $5 each attracted my attention, and I found myself moving very slowly through these attractive rooms until I finally reached Raphael Soyer's exhibition.

His paintings are most attractive, but as he was born in Russia I think his art shows the Russian influence. These paintings leave me with a sense of repression.

I was shown the room where shortly there is to be an exhibition of WPA children's art and then I had a great thrill.

THERE IS SOON to be opened an exhibition of paintings by Thomas Hart Benton. He happened to be there, so I had the great pleasure of meeting him and seeing two or three of his paintings.

One head of an old Negro is very beautiful and there is a painting, which is quite delightful, of a little Negro boy sitting with his lessons and looking at the teacher across a table.

Mr. Benton said he had to hold the little boy with one hand while he painted with the other and that is probably why the child looks so natural and alive. I can just imagine him slipping through Mr. Benton's fingers, to go fishing in the brook.

I FOUND in my apartment in New York City a gift—a little collection of poems by living English poets. None of the poems is signed. They were chosen because of their contemporary interest and touch with today.

One short poem will strike a familiar note with most of us. It is called:

THE FORERUNNER

Always a step ahead of me,
Cool-eyed, confident, lean,
The person I should wish to be,
And never yet have been:
His lips are full of projects done—
Mine only of their name—
How can I be that winning one,
This second that I am?

Whether you are man or woman, young or old, this person you wish to be is always ahead of you.

HENDERSON PRAYS FOR SUMMER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 7—Leon Henderson, New Deal economist and price stabilizer for the government, this week fixed the price of all coal sold in America. When this was accomplished, Henderson summoned his staff and reported the news . . . "What do we do next?" they asked—eager to go into action against any one guilty of jacking up the price of coal. "Wait a minute," said Henderson. "Don't rush out, looking for legal sanctions, to enforce this. This is coal we're dealing with, and first we all must pray" . . . "Pray?" they asked . . . "Yes, pray," said Henderson, "pray—for warm weather."

MOVIES DEPT.: Paul Hernreid, whose excellent Nazi portrayals in "Flight to the West" and in the movie "Night Train" won him a contract, was in Sardi's last night. Dolly Haas, who is appearing in "Circle of Chalk," joined his table. "I'm nervous, about Hollywood. I've never been there," Hernreid confessed. "I'm afraid that as soon as I arrive I'll start trembling" . . . "Never, never tremble in Hollywood," warned Miss Haas—who was there last year, "unless the part calls for it."

THEATER DEPT.: This week Gen. Frank, of the Army Air Corps stationed at Mitchel Field, saw a performance of "My Sister Eileen." He laughed so much that he decided to reward the members of the cast. He expressed his reward in military terms by ordering that to the cast of "My Sister Eileen" be sent two empty 100-pound aerial bombs.

MUSIC DEPT.: In Cafe Society Uptown, Kamaladwi Chattapadhyay—who represents Nehru, the jailed Indian leader, in a lecture tour in this country—was escorted by her son, Rama, a student at Columbia University . . . They listened to Hazel Scott, the Golden Gate Quartette and to the mellow music which sent her to Hepland. Nehru's disciple turned to her son and directed: "Remind me, when we leave—to introduce Boogie-Woogie into Bombay."

LOCAL NEWS: The famous Mozart Viennese Boys' Choir which was touring Australia when war was declared, has been absorbed by the St. Patrick's Cathedral Choir in Melbourne . . . Canada Lee, who plays the lead in "Native Son," has been deferred by the draft board—because of his impaired vision . . . Inez Robb, the columnist, read the story about Tuxedo Park finally opening its properties for purchase by the public and went up there. The gate tender barred her—indicating there's no change at Tuxedo . . . The President's home-defense appointments will be made after April 10 . . . Father A. R. Hyland, chaplain at Clinton Prison in Dannemora, would welcome contributions with which to complete the unfinished chapel there.

SPORTS DEPT.: Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt told this story at the Versailles last night: One of his jockeys rode in a race in which a London jockey was making his American debut. The newcomer, who wasn't familiar with some of the local customs, was pocketed by two riders and then was crowded into the rail . . . After the race Vanderbilt's jockey reported to his employer: "Say, boss—what's Spice?" . . . "Oh, it's some stuff like cinnamon, cloves," said Vanderbilt. "Why do you ask?" . . . "Because that's what the London jockey kept yelling for," was the answer. "All through the race I heard him hollering: 'Gimme spice. I need more spice.'"

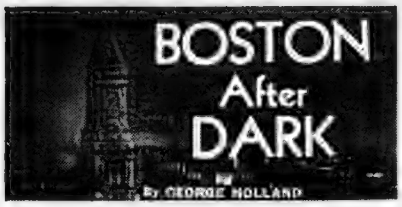
DRAMA DEPT.: Harry Langdon, the veteran movie comic, came to town this week and arranged for an agent to represent him. Langdon then discussed with Olsen and Johnson the possibilities of his going into "Hellzapoppin'," as a team mate for Jay C. Flippen, when Olsen and Johnson leave for Hollywood . . . Harry phoned his agent to make the deal, but could get no response. He left his name, but the agent never called back. He telephoned another agency. The operator knew of Harry Langdon—but the man Harry was seeking to earn an agent's percentage just for signing the contract was away. He, too, never called back . . . And so now Harry Langdon, who was one of Hollywood's most famous comics, unable to get an agent to accept a percentage for signing a contract, is negotiating his own deal.



MONDAY MUSINGS: At Sunday cocktail time, in the Copley-Plaza's Merry-Go-Round, more than 30 per cent of the male guests were in uniform . . . Less than half of the men were commissioned officers . . . Which brings us to a mention of the blow struck for democracy by the nation's tailors.

WHEN THE HEROES of the new citizens' army are decked out in their Sunday clothes and dress boots it is difficult for a non-military observer to distinguish between the captains and the corporals . . . One item of apparel which caused some speculation at the Plaza was the so-called "canoe cap," known in World War days, as an "overseas cap."

IT WAS THE FIRST example of this type of headdress we have seen being worn, in public, this war . . . One sees few uniforms in the nightclubs, incidentally . . . But the reason is not that the gayer spots have been proscribed . . . The soldiers get week-end leaves only, and it's a long jaunt from either Camp Edwards or Fort Devens when the curfew on cocktails and highballs rings at 12 midnight—sharp.

LITTLETON, N. H., SHOULD SPLIT the cost of the Bette Davis junket with Warner Brothers . . . The town has had more publicity than Miss Davis' new picture

THE BOSTON NEWS PHOTOGRAPHERS' annual jamboree is to be held a week from tonight at the Versailles, and, as usual, the cameramen will play host to a capacity gathering . . . The show—again "as usual"—will be a real hit.

THE CAMERAMEN'S CARNIVAL must not be confused with the annual dinner-dance-show of the Boston Newspapermen's Benevolent Association . . . Not that there exists any bitter rivalry between the two organizations . . . The rivalry is, on the contrary, most friendly.

APRIL 24 HAS BEEN set as the date of the Newspapermen's Benevolent Association annual shindig . . . The Copley-Plaza Hotel will be the scene, as in the past, and a martial note this year will be the presentation of colors by a detachment of marines.

BOB COURT, WHO is general chairman, and his associates are congratulating themselves on getting assurances that 24 members of the Royal Air Force will be present . . . As recurrent in newspapers as any phrase or word the past year, "RAF" has become so familiar to newspapermen—particularly those who occupy the rewrite, and copy desks—that the presence in person of two-dozen British fliers is bound to prove thrilling.

RUBY FOO'S FAMOUS PLACE in Chinatown, The Den, runs a close race with the Childs restaurant near the Statler as the busiest "late spot" in Boston . . . Joe Linsey's Howard Johnson stand in Huntington ave. gets its share of stayers-up . . . In none of these places is the service of liquor accented, and Ruby's Den doesn't serve the stuff at all . . . (This is in answer to batches of letters which ask: "What to do in Boston late at night, or early in the morning? And where do the people go?")

CHURCHILL'S LIFE ON SCREEN

By Louella O. Parsons

Winston Churchill

HOLLYWOOD, April 7—The biggest news of a motion picture is the contemplated "Life of Winston Churchill," England's prime minister, planned by Sol Lesser. I just learned that James Roosevelt's trip East to confer with his father, President Roosevelt, is partly for the purpose of seeing if it couldn't be arranged for Lesser and himself to film the biography of Churchill.

Because other actors have been associated with some character they played on the screen, an unknown player will be chosen for the role of Churchill. Certainly the history of Churchill would make an interesting movie. He was war admiral during the World War, he served in the Boer War and he has been a British statesman for years. America is especially interested for his mother, Lady Randolph Churchill, was Jennie Jerome of New York, a great beauty in her day.

A GOOD THING that Ann Sheridan took herself a long vacation when she and Warners were separated, for from her schedule she won't have much time to play. After she finishes "King's Row" she'll have a role in the "Klondike" opus that Warners are planning in technicolor. I was interested to hear she'll play Klondike Kate, a real character, while many others including Tex Rickard and Sid Grauman who were part of the gold rush panorama, will be in the movie. What character Edward G. Robinson will play I don't know but if present plans go through he'll be the male star. Mike Curtiz will direct "Personally Myself," as he so quaintly puts it.

THE CHARMING Marjorie Kinnan Rawlins' novel, "The Yearling," will be filmed soon in Florida. I was curious to know how M-G-M managed the tame deer who plays the little boy's companion. Sidney Franklin explained that over 25 deer, all babies, were fed by Gene Eckman, the boy, and they know and love him. Chester Franklin, Sidney's brother, who made "Sequoia," is already in Florida shooting some scenes. Next week Victor Fleming, the director, leaves with Gene, who was chosen out of 3000 tested to play Jody. "The Yearling" is one of the most beautiful stories ever written and M-G-M can make it a classic.

OF ALL the sad young men—Jackie Coogan is the saddest. At this moment he is in the brig at Camp Roberts following a little A. W. O. L. stunt. Jackie writes his pals, "It looks like a three-week stretch." Speaking of our Hollywood draftees, Eddie Norris, who was once wed to Ann Sheridan, leaves immediately for camp. Last night at the Florentine Gardens with Dennis Morgan's pretty sister, he said the summons came so suddenly he hasn't had time to make any plans.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Al Jolson flew out here quietly to huddle with Ruby Keeler's mother and that can only mean one thing. Al wants Ruby back. He came soon after he heard that her romance with John Lowe, the wealthy Pasadenan, was cooling. In true Jolson fashion, he brought along a big diamond ring for Ruby. He has always admittedly carried the torch for her ever since their separation. All their friends hope there will be a reconciliation for Al is a good guy and Ruby is a swell gal.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Charles Wendling (he's Claudette Colbert's brother) and Margaret Lindsay have discovered each other; Olympe Bradna's bridegroom-to-be, Douglas Wilhoit, has been drafted; the pretty girl with Baron Polan at Charley Foy's night club is Sue Garland, sister of Judy; Leif Erickson hadn't been on the lot at Paramount ten minutes when his ex-wife, Frances Farmer, came on the set to wish him luck; Astrid Allwyn and marine officer Hugh Hancock are thinking things over; 20th is bidding for the Clare Boothe play, "Margin for Error," Sylvia Sidney has turned redhead for her new stage show.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS on leave from official duties love to get in a bit of dancing on their week-ends off, judging by the number celebrating in the Balinese Room of the Somerset Saturday evening . . .

Dining and dancing in a merry foursome with their wives, Lieut. John and Ensign Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., were the center of attention of the huge throng of dancers . . . Mrs. Franklin, the former Ethel DuPont, looked as pretty and vivacious as in her pictures, when she danced around the floor with her tall, young hubby . . . Her simple gold wool dress was adorned with gold clips . . . Anne Clark Roosevelt wore a modish black taffeta afternoon dress with a dirndl skirt, a short fur jacket and gardenias . . .

Sergt. Whitey Whitehead, home from Camp Edwards, regaled his friends with up-to-the-minute news from the center of Army activity on the Cape . . . He was in a party with Dottie O'Day, the Wallace L. Pierces and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Coonley of Honolulu . . . Dottie wore a new spring print—large turquoise flowers on a white background, and blonde Markie Pierce wore a black print with turquoise daisies . . .

At a nearby table Mrs. Davis Crowninshield, the Lentner Sewalls and several other friends were making merry in a pre-Easter party, while Jean Cullen was in a twosome with Johnnie Goode, and Ginny Prout and Buster Sears arrived in their full wedding regalia after serving as attendants at the marriage of Buster's sister, Nancy, to Vinton Freedley, Jr. . . . They shared a table with Patricia Phelan and Doug Harlow.

CYNTHIA FORBES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Murray Forbes of Wellesley, is to become the bride of Lieut. John Lowell Lyman, Harvard '37 graduate and son of the Ronald Lymans of Boston. Cynthia attended Beaver Country Day and studied in Europe. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cochrane of Boston.

Mrs. Alfred McIntyre's Easter Bonnet

IF EASTER MORNING dawns warm and sunny, Mrs. Alfred McIntyre of Louisburg sq. will sally forth to church in one of the trickiest Easter bonnets we have seen in many a moon . . .

It is a litle calot of red and green currants which look real enough to eat, and nestles behind her blonde pompadour curls . . . Trailing down over her shoulders from the back of the hat is a cloud of red and green veiling to match the currants . . .

She wore the hat with a trim black suit and fur jacket to the opera matinee of "The Barber of Seville" Saturday afternoon and was easily one of the most fashionable ladies in the vast gathering of music lovers . . . She was accompanied by three youngsters . . .

Becky Hobbs and her mother, Mrs. Franklin Hobbs, also sported their new Easter togs . . . Becky, who usually favors tailored hats, is making a concession to spring with a dressy little black cap which fits her head closely and has green and red wings shooting out over each ear . . . With it she wears a slim black reefer coat . . . Her mother's violet redingote suit was topped by furs and a green straw hat piled high with violets.

Bartlett Harwoods Attend

LUCY POPE was escorted by Bernard Fox as she hustled in for the glorious performance and Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Harwood were other enthusiastic members of the audience . . . Mrs. Harwood, whose beautiful and lavish array of evening gowns added so much brilliance to opera audiences all week, was modishly turned out for the matinee in a navy blue ensemble with white gloves and a close fitting navy hat trimmed with a halo of stiff red and gray feathers . . .

Up from the North Shore to initiate her youngest daughter into the delights of opera-going, was Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean, wearing a huge cartwheel hat of emerald felt with a taupe brown coat and muskrat stole .

Miss Forbes To Wed Soon

Uncle Sam's preparedness program will probably hasten the wedding plans of Cynthia Forbes and Lieut. John Lowell Lyman, whose engagement is announced by Cynthia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Murray Forbes of Descrie, Wellesley. Lieut. Lyman, son of the Ronald Lymans of Boston, is on active duty with the 186th Field Artillery at Madison Barracks, New York.

Descrie, the Forbes estate, will be an ideal setting for the wedding, with its spacious lawns and gardens bordering a picturesque bend in the Charles River on the Dover side of Wellesley. Cynthia is a member of the Vincent and Chilton Clubs and is a cousin of Lucy and Nancy Cochrane.

Lecture on France At College Club

Mrs. Waltstill H. Sharp of Wellesley, who with her husband, Rev. Sharp, has been active in work with refugees both in this country and Europe, will speak on her work in unoccupied France last summer, at the College Club Wednesday evening.

The lecture, one of the features of the club's April program, will be followed by a coffee hour with Mrs. Bancroft Beatley and Dean Jane L. Mesick presiding.

Anyone familiar with the college club knows that its buffet suppers are tempting and will be eager to hear the secret of planning and preparing the delicacies.

Miss Marie L. Knapp, who is in charge of that department of the club, will reveal her secrets at a demonstration of hors d'oeuvres and fancy sandwiches on Monday, April 14. Miss Barbara Smith will assist at the demonstration and the pourers will be Miss Helen F. Greene and Miss Edith A. Sprague.

Home and Kitchen

Now, Lemon Chiffon Pie

By MARTHA LEE

AT THIS TIME of year, just before the rush of early spring fruits and vegetables, meal planning is often trying. The food we see in our cupboards, and even in the markets, have been with us a long time. We are perhaps tired of eating them and certainly of cooking them.

In homes where dessert is an important part of the meal, the following recipes will do nicely to bridge the gap between the mince pie or plum pudding season and the heyday of berries and cream and peach shortcake.

Lemon Chiffon Pie is not only a year-'round standby, but it will compete for honors with the best spring and summertime treats. In most homes this pie is greeted with enthusiasm and is welcome at least once a week. With an unbaked crumb pie shell, you won't mind making it often. The recipe is a time and labor saver and it is never fail.

LEMON CHIFFON PIE

1 crumb pie shell
1½ tsp. gelatin
¼ cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
½ cup lemon juice
½ tsp. salt
1 cup sugar

Prepare crumb pie shell and chill. Soak gelatin in water. Beat egg yolks slightly in top of double boiler; add lemon rind, lemon juice, salt and half the sugar; stir and cook over hot water until of custard consistency. Add soaked gelatin and stir often while custard cools. When mixture begins to congeal, add stiffly beaten egg whites to which other half of sugar has been added. Pour into crumb pie shell and chill in refrigerator one hour or until filling is firm enough to cut. Makes one 9-inch pie

CRUMB PIE SHELL

1-3 cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 cup fine corn flake crumbs

Melt butter in pie pan. Add sugar and crumbs; mix thoroughly. Press mixture evenly and firmly around sides and bottom of pan. Chill before adding filling. Note: Roll or grind 4 cups of corn flakes to make 1 cup fine crumbs.

Canned fruits become more interesting when served with cookies. The spicy flavor and crispness of this cookie make it a perfect accompaniment for bland fruits such as pears, peaches, or Queen Anne cherries. It may be difficult to keep the cookie jar full, but you can wrap the dough in wax paper and keep it for days in the refrigerator, baking the cookies as you need them.

BRAN PEANUT BUTTER REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

½ cup peanut butter
1 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
3 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder

Cream together peanut butter and butter; add sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in bran. Sift flour with baking powder and work into first mixture, a small amount at a time. Knead and shape into rolls about 1¼ inches in diameter; wrap in waxed paper, covering ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) about 10 minutes. Makes 7½ dozen cookies (2 inches in diameter).

Note: One tablespoon water or milk may be added to dough if it is difficult to shape into rolls.

You Can Be Beautiful

ONE of the newest bathing suit fashions . . . originated on the California coast . . . and due in Boston soon is this Tahitian midriff number . . . and it's obvious that it can only look its best when it's topped by nicely curved shoulders . . . so today Arline Gould has a suggestion for the scrawny-shouldered girls who would become bathing beauties!

Aids Scrawny Tissues

By ARLINE GOULD

THERE'S SO MUCH talk in the jolly old springtime about sloughing pounds . . . shedding them as fast as possible . . . that no one gives a sympathetic thought to the girls with chickeny bones latticed from neck to shoulder . . . which show deplorably when a deep, open-throated blouse is worn.

No one that is, with the exception of this department . . . which sweats to you, if you're in the too slenderish class, that chest developing exercises are wonderful things . . . and that we have a wonderful leaflet giving some Fifth ave. salon bosom exercises BUT that's not all. There is one cream . . . and only one as far as we know . . . which can be used to encourage the filling out of the tissues to relieve a scrawny look around the arms, neck, shoulders and chest.

It's an incredibly rich type of cream . . . with most of the known "feeding" oils in it, and a few that are unknown except to its formulators . . . and so lush and rich is this cream that it's actually clotted

Though these two aids . . . destined to help you achieve the curves that make a Landis famous . . . did not originate in the same salon, we offer you information on both because it seems the combination simply cannot fail!

In using the lush cream . . . massage it lightly into scrawny tissues every night . . . it's very absorptive, and there won't be much to wipe away after you've had it on for a while. In the morning, a quick spurt of cold shower (as cold as you can stand) around the shoulders you'll find cream was used . . . and you've started well on your way!

If you'd like information on this unusual rich cream for scrawny tissues, phone LIBerty 4000, except the week-end; or if you wish, write also for the leaflet on chest developing exercises, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lyn's Wedding Dress

By Alissa Keir

DESTINY'S way of putting things over on us, so that apparently simple events make momentous crises in our lives doesn't seem quite fair. Thus—David Marsden, while he shaved one certain morning, hadn't an inkling that this very day he'd attend a fashion show.

A fact that would have wrecked us whole life, if the good fairy at its cradle hadn't—at the very last moment—willed otherwise. Of all places, a fashion show! For him—David Marsden selected a year or so ago, as halfback for the All-America team!

David was in love, very much in love, with a wisp of a girl, Lyn Harvey—you couldn't possibly call her Evelyn. Lyn wanted to be a singer. Now there's nothing wrong with that picture, unless you know the Marsdens—they being a clan who still doggedly stick to the idea that a woman's place is in the home. To appear in public, have a career—earn money—. Of course it was inconceivable that a young person with such notions could aspire to become the wife of a Marsden.

Lyn was living at a girls' club, and she was well chaperoned. For the present, therefore, David elected to consider her ambitions as something to poo-poo, as a passing eccentricity.

"Darling," he said to Lyn, "granted I'm living on Dad's 'unemployment allowance,' it won't be long before I get a job. Mining engineers go places, and just any moment I'll be hauling you before the preacher, and you'll be off somewhere and you'll forget all this nonsense.

"Why, Lyn," he finished in a kindly voice. "I wouldn't even tell them at home, that you ever thought of going on the stage."

This sort of thing as a steady diet drove Lyn almost wild. "Why shouldn't I be a singer? I'm as decent as any of the stuffy old fogies you think so perfect. What makes you think a woman in public life can't go straight I'd like to know, Dave Marsden?" she answered hotly.

The Cast of Characters in "Lyn's Wedding Dress"

LYN HARVEY, a girl with stage gistic aspirations but whose heart turns to DAVID MARSTON, whose aristocratic parents frown on career girl.

David would ignore the question. He had a letter of introduction to deliver at International Mines, about a job. Then he was to meet Lyn for their daily walk in the park. Alas, he thought ruefully, he hadn't the price to ask her to lunch. "Well, anyway," he said to himself, "her three meals a day are included in the club's board."

They shivered as they huddled close together on their favorite park bench beside the pond.

"Gee, Lyn," Dave said, "I had a long interview with International Mines this morning, and I'm almost sure of a job with them. I wish I had it now. This is just the day I'd like to take you to some nice spot for cocktails—dim lights—dreamy music—dance and hold you in my arms—" his voice trailed off.

AN INVITATION!

Lyn's right hand was closed firmly in that of David's. But her left hand was in her coat pocket, where it touched an envelope containing a card.

"Why, Dave, see here," she said excitedly, waving the envelope at him. "I'd completely forgotten. One of the girls at the club gave me this — it's an invitation to Yvette's fashion show at the Ritzmore in aid of British Relief."

"Fashion show!" he roared. "Me, at a fashion show! What d'ye take me for? Not little David, no, ma'am."

"But, dear, the fashion show is only a part of the benefit. There'll be music and dancing and everything you said you wanted. And we never go anywhere nice, do we, David?" she asked wistfully.

True enough, David agreed to himself. It must be pretty dull sailing with him, when she could be out as much as she wanted with Ernie Pearce of Pearce's Peerless Soap Chips, who had a million in his own right. Ernie, she had once told him, hadn't the least objection to girls singing in public.

It was getting colder, and there was nowhere for him to take Lyn except the solemn parlor at the club, where people came in and out, as if it were Grand Central Station.

"Well, all right, you win," David grunted. "We'll go."

The big ballroom at the Ritzmore was crammed with people as they came in and, willy nilly, they were pushed to the front row, before the space reserved for the fashion show, which was just about to begin.

Lyn was glad they were stuck, and with shining eyes she watched the lovely models pass by.

"I'm going to be married in a dress just like that," Lyn said.

The piece de resistance, the finale Yvette called "a Beige Wedding." And to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, there walked down the ramp a bride in a dress Lyn was quite certain was the most beautiful dress she'd ever seen in her life. It was made of taffeta, but of a taffeta so fine that it weighed no more than chiffon. The sleeves extended below the elbows, there was a small heart shaped opening at the front, the skirt was very full, with a train yards long.

Yvette herself announced this part of the program. "The train it ees removable," she said. "There is enough material in eet to make an evening cloak for the bride. The dress then can be worn on many occasions."

"Isn't it just too lovely, David?" Lyn breathed.

"Just the color of your hair, dearest—like honey," David whispered.

"I'm going to be married in a dress just like that," Lyn said with determination. Just then "the bride" passed before them in review, standing still for an instant.

"Would you mind telling me—how much is that dress?" Lyn blushed.

"Three hundred and sixty dollars," the model answered with hauteur.

"A lot of money, but it's certainly one nifty garment," David remarked. "Now how about a dance, Lyn?"

It was almost 7 o'clock when Dave took her back to the club, where they found Gus Fried, Lyn's manager, pacing the floor, watch in hand. Gust had an unexpected spot for Lyn to sing in a small roadhouse just outside the town. It would serve as a tryout and teach her confidence.

"Hurry up, sweetheart, and dress. I've got the car outside," Gus said to Lyn, putting an affectionate arm around her.

Now it was utterly impossible for a Marsden to understand that kindly, plump, voluble Gus Fried wouldn't hurt a fly. And so David drew Lyn roughly to one side. "I forbid you to go with that guy and make an exhibition of yourself in some low dive."

"You're forbidding me nothing, David," Lyn said tremulously. "I'm doing what Gus suggests—it's for my own good. Please don't upset me, darling," she implored. "I'm nervous enough already."

"All right," David said bitterly. "Have it your own way, Lyn, but it's the end between you and me."

Her big opportunity came with the opening of the mauve room on the fortieth floor of the Sky Building Pearce's Peerless Soap Chips had helped erect.

"You're doing swell, kid," Ernie had said to her, "and you rate the chance of making good. You know I'll always love you, Lyn." For once Ernie was serious. "But there aren't any strings attached to your engagement here. Gus will attend to your contract, just as if you were a stranger to me."

The thrill of her first Broadway engagement didn't stop the steady ache in her heart—for she hadn't heard a word from David.

Finally one night, she could bear it no longer, and she dialed this home with trembling fingers. He wasn't in and she left her name and the number of the telephone in her dressing room, saying he could reach her there until one o'clock.

She didn't dare go out for a breath of air, as she usually did between shows, and she sat still, fighting the urge to call him again.

"Well, that's that," she thought bitterly when it was time to go. David had meant it when he'd said they were through. Listlessly she left the building. There was no sleep in her and she decided to have a cup of coffee in a little white tiled place close by.

AN ANGRY SUITOR

And this is where David's good fairy makes an entry, for just a few seconds before that she must have willed David to go there, too.

"Oh, David," Lynn said haltingly when she saw him, "I called you tonight.'

"I know you did." His manner was curt. "And I walked over to the Sky Building—I wanted to talk to you about something."

"About what?" Lyn asked.

"Forget it, Lyn." He turned his head away from her. "What's the idea of telephoning me when you're married to Ernie Pearce?" he asked angrily.

"Married to Ernie?" she echoed. "I'm not married to Ernie."

"Well, you're singing in his building, wearing the wedding dress we saw at the Fashion Show. Remember," he said ironically, "the dress you said you wanted to wear at your own wedding that cost three hundred and sixty dollars?"

"Oh, David, how funny." Lyn began to laugh through her tears. "When they asked me to sing in the mauve room, I hadn't any money and I needed a dress. So I went to Yvette's sale and found the beige wedding dress on a rack. They'd been using it as a model. It was filthy and there was a big cigarette burn in the front. Yvette said I could have it cleaned and a piece taken out of the skirt and she'd let me have it for twenty dollars and I could pay for it out of my first week's salary."

There was silence between them. "I've mised you so, David," she said quietly. "Anyway, what did you want to see me about?"

"I've been an awful chump, darling. You can't be expected to forgive me. You see, I've finally got my job with International Mines and I'm to sail next week for Brazil and I don't suppoes you'd go with me, would you, Lyn, after the way I've treated you?"

"But of course. I'm going with you, darling." She clapped her hands. "I'll be married in the beige wedding dress. Oh, David," she drew in her breath, "to think the dress almost separated us forever."

WANTED

. . . to meet some folks who can use extra cash

We have just opened up a new streamlined loan service here and we're anxious to make personal loans—any amount from $20 to $300—to any person able to repay such a loan by the month in small payments. We maintain that folks here are honest and that there's no need for red tape or embarrassing investigations in making them loans. We believe that you'll treat us fair if we treat you fair. That's why we don't ask you to go out and beg someone to be your co-signer . . . nor do we ask you to put up a lot of security. All we want is your promise to pay. Our rates are fair and we give quick action. And you can set your own terms on how you want to repay the loan.

Come in, tell us how much you want and how you'd like to repay it. Then just sign and get the cash. LIGHTHOUSE LOAN & FINANCE COMPANY.

Sox Hurlers Look Great in Recent Tilts

By HERB FINNEGAN

OWENSBURG, Ky., April 7—Mike Ryba until yesterday's encounter with the Reds was unscored on in 18 innings in the southland; Charlie Wagner is unscored on in 12, pitching a three-hitter against Rochester in the bargain; Jack Wilson gives the Reds only four hits in six innings after making both the Reds and Giants squeal in three-inning tricks; Earl Johnson gives the Reds only four hits in six innings after being on the bench for two weeks; Woody Rich is not only invincible but is actually knocking the bats out of the hitters' hands; Joe Dobson comes up with a masterpiece against the world champions on his third try; Mickey Harris is the sensation of the spring campaign, and Emerson Dickman gives only one hit and one unearned run in six innings of relief work.

So the Red Sox haven't got the pitching, eh?

A Grapefruit League itinerant, after watching them for six weeks, would be forced to the conclusion that pitching is their strong point.

Yet the same itinerant observer came to the same conclusion last spring after watching Bagby, Wilson, Galehouse, Harris and Dickman burn up the citrus circuit, and where did they get?

Let's look at the 1940 records:—

Wilson Best of Hurlers Last Year

Bagby 10-16; Wilson, 12-6, several of his wins coming after the Sox were out of the race; Galehouse 6-3; Dickman 3-6 and Harris released to Scranton (an A league) after winning 4 and losing 2.

Not much to brag about there, to be sure. Where does the fault lie?

Several reasons have been advanced for the annual downfall of the Sox staff.

Most of the disgruntled pitchers claimed they either got too much or too little work; when they were winning they were used as both starters and relief men; when they were tired from overwork they sat on the bench for a month to lose their control.

They claimed, too, that they were never given an even shake in finishing a game; that they were yanked unceremoniously the first time a coule of men got on base.

"How many times have you seen a pitcher scored on in the first inning and then settle down for the afternoon?" the asked.

Some insisted that even Walters or Derringer couldn't look good with the Sox infield of 1940.

What makes their bleats stand up is the fact that pitchers like Buck Newsom and Elden Auker have done so well since going with other clubs and that pitchers like Bagby and Wilson, instead of developing into 20-game winners, have been getting worse instead of better.

There's Bagby, winner of 15 games his first year up, 1938. What has he done since? Won only five before being sent back to Little Rock in '39, and only 10 all of last year. Well, he's with the Indians now, and let's watch his progress with them.

Butland, Dasso Look Like Winners

Take Wilson's case. Here's a husky young bull winning 16 and losing 10 way back in '37, and where has he been since? 1938, 15-15; 1939, 11-11, and 1940, 12-6 with the hardest hitting team in all baseball behind him.

We've talked with the myriad old time ball players who hang around the Sox quarters at Sarasota, and they claim Frank Dasso was the best pitching prospect the Sox have had in the South, and yet the Sox have been releasing him year in and year out. This year he'll be with Hollywood.

We've talked with American Association players and managers who claim that Bill Butland is the best prospect the Sox have in their organization. Two years ago Butland won 19 for Minneapolis and now he's with Louisville in the same league. Not much progress.

We've heard a million and one bleats about the way the Sox pitchers have been handled but who knows whether they are justified or not?

Present Staff Respected by Opponents

There's one way of providing proof, however, Ryba, Wagner, Wilson, Johnson, Rich, Dobson and Harris have earned the respect of major and minor league foes alike on this spring trip.

All have talent, unquestionably, and the fact that the non-winning veterans like Bagby, Galehouse and Ostermueller have departed will help their chances of making good.

Certainly they shouldn't do any worse than their predecessors. But if they do, while the Bagbys, Galehouses and Ostermuellers prosper on other fields like the Newsoms and the Aukers, then something is rotten in Fenway Park as well as in the state of Denmark.

WILLIAMS DUE IN BOSTON FOR VITAL ANKLE CHECK

Ted Williams was rushing to Boston this afternoon on the Colonial express from Birmingham, Alabama, for a physical checkup which may hold the fate of the Red Sox this season.

Suffering from an injury reported to be a slight ankle fracture, the slugging young Hose outfielder arrives early this evening and will be examined tomorrow by Tommy Richards. New X-ray plates then will be made.

On the results of this checkup depend to considerable extent the Hose chances.

Admittedly a team which must depend on hitting power to overcome battery weakness, the Sox need Williams, one of the deadliest batters on the club and one who has been showing the best spring form of his career until the past few days.

If Teddy's training campaign injury is such that he must be benched for the important first month of the season, the Hose hopes of getting into the flag fight may fade.

But if, as a Birmingham doctor is reported to have said, his ailment is such that thorough strapping will allow him to play without danger, Ted will be in there to give the team a chance to stay up from the start.

The Birmingham physician's report said that he was convinced that it would be possible to tape Ted's ankle so that the fracture will not be troublesome.

If this is so, Ted will be in the lineup for the season's regular opener at Fenway against the Senators a week from tomorrow, if not for the city series with the Bees on Saturday and Sunday.

Hershey Seeks To Tie Series With Home Win

HERSHEY, Pa., April 7 (AP)—Unbeaten by Cleveland on home ice all season, the Hershey Bears promised their followers today that record would remain intact as they prepared for the fourth game of the American Hockey League playoffs.

Trailing two games to none, the Bears came home Saturday and gave the home fans a rousing show, trouncing Cleveland, 4-0, and gaining another chance for the title.

Cleveland can capture the title by winning tomorrow night's engagement. If a fifth game is required it will be played Thursday at Cleveland

Lefty Grove Brilliant In Sox Defeat

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7 (AP) — Catcher Ernie Lombardi celebrated his 33d birthday today by banging out three hits — two of them doubles—in three times up as the Cincinnati Reds whipped the Boston Red Sox, 5-3.

Paul Derringer, on the sidelines since March 18 with an injury, pitched the first three innings and held the Sox to one scratch hit. Junior Thompson took over in the fourth and finished the route, allowing five safeties.

The Reds smashed old Mike Ryba's string of 18 scoreless innings by pouncing on him for three runs in the fourth after Mose Grove, in his first outing of the year, had opened with three scoreless frames and yielded only one hit.

Lucas, Ex-Bee, Named Pilot

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 7 (AP)—Charles ("Red") Lucas, former pitcher for the Boston Bees, Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates, will manage the Grand Rapids Colts in the Michigan State League this season, John van Splunter, club president, announced today.

Lucas, now 39, was coach and relief pitcher for Montreal of the International League last year. His services as manager of the Grand Rapids club were obtained by the Brooklyn Dodgers, parent club of the Colts.

Sisti's Star Rises

Bee's Baby Nears Peak

By BILL GRIMES

WICHITA, Kan., April 7—One of the best box office attractions, Pres. Bob Quinn has on his Bees' roster is Sibby Sisti, the baby of the Stengelmen.

Young Sisti will not be eligible to cast his first vote until July 26. After graduating from High School at Buffalo, N. Y., late in June of 1938, Sisti joined the Hartford Bees. It's a wide step from high school to Class A baseball. But, Sibby made it. And, in less than two years, he became the Bees' regular third baseman.

Last spring, when Casey Stengel made the announcement that he was going to keep Sisti with his club, the experts thought Old Case was making a grave mistake. In their opinion, Sisti needed another year in the minor league.

The boy, according to the way they sized up the case, required more experience before he'd be ready for the National League. Well, naturally, Casey Stengel knew that to be true, under ordinary circumstances. And, he also knew of Sisti's possibilities to work under even a better than average minor league manager.

FEARED BUSH MANAGEMENT

The "bush" mentor might "make" Sisti. But, he might ruin him. Old Case wasn't taking any chances. He'd gladly take the criticism in the event that Sibby didn't come up to expectations. If Sisti was to be ruined, Casey felt it was his privilege to do it.

Sibby Sisti is the answer to a manager's prayer. He has youth, speed, courage, hustle, ambition and brains. He lives baseball and is a clean liver. He doesn't smoke or drink, has a fine personality and is very popular on and off the field.

A year ago, Sisti was the innocent victim of too much instruction. At Bradenton, Sibby was tried out at second base. Day after day, he worked under the watchful eye of the very capable Tony Cuccinello, trying to master the pivot throw on double plays.

Up to the last of July, Sisti didn't hit for his weight. Until Sibby has mastered his courses in defensive play, Casey Stengel didn't have the heart to offer any suggestions concerning the boy's weaknesses. But, then, on Sunday in Chicago, Old Case took Sisti off to one side and did his stuff. At that time, Sibby was hitting for less than .150 but in two months he boosted his average to .251 and in order to reach those figures he had to 'hit better than .300 against National League pitching.

GRIMES MAKES PREDICTION

During this spring, Sisti has looked better at the bat than at any time since he has been with the Bees. He is very loose at the plate, with his arms well away from his body and he now takes a fine "cut." Moreover, he tries to hit according to where the ball is pitched, pulling those inside and going to right with outside pitches.

While the Bees were in San Antonio, many big league club scouts dropped in to see what Casey Stengel had in the way of young players. Everyone was most favorably impressed by Sisti.

And, now, I'll repeat what I wrote a year ago.

Sibby Sisti will be one of baseball's greats.

LOU NOVA OUTSTANDING CONTENDER FOR TITLE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, April 7 (INS)—What a man Lou Nova would be running a picket line! That fellow would never miss a day's work during a bat-swinging, rock-throwing strike. He'd just saunter down the gauntlet of those sterling workers with the Louisville sluggers, lunch-box under his arm, and take his place at the lathe or assembly belt as if bitten by nothing more serious than a cloud of gnats.

As in the first Baer fight, Lou took some punches from Max Friday night which would have ripped a fireplug up by the bleeding roots. He seems to take a weird Joe Grimm delight in exposing his chin to Baer's overhand right—still the hardest punch in the business—and taking it.

We thought Baer would knock him out in the fourth round of each of their fights. But nothing happened. Friday night one of the awful punches caused Lou to sag against the red plush ropes, just over our typewriter. We looked up at his face and on it was etched the look of a man with the preoccupied air of a fellow trying to listen to his mother-in-law while reading the paper.

BAER FOLDS

Lou came up off those ropes almost casually, walked to the middle of the ring and held out his arms in a kind of "that don't hoit" shrug. Baer was licked then and there. Fun-loving, fundamental Maxie wants no truck with the supernatural, and here, plainly, he was dealing with the infinite. Lou is an amateur Yogi, a disciple of an ancient Hindu faith which believes that it is possible to separate one's pains and desires from the body itself.

Baer was frightened at the apparition before him—the clumsy, stumbling, young iron-clinked heavyweight with the queer, bright look in his eye. We suspect that Maxie began picking out a soft spot on the canvas from that fourth round on. In other words, he began to lose the fight at the moment his most terrific punch failed to finish Nova.

Lou fortified himself for the fight by a secret Yoga ritual. About 15 minutes before his cue came, he went into an anteroom, just off his dressing room. He wanted to be alone, he said.

ARCEL'S WORDS UNHEEDED

We sat close enough to Nova's corner to make us believe that he indeed had transported himself into some sort of self-hypnosis. Ray Arcel, his chief second, shouted instructions to him at the top of his lungs, and about two inches from Lou's ear. Arcel repeated himself a lot, with the monotonous insistence of a man trying to bring a friend out of a faint or a sound sleep.

We're not up on our Yoga, but there is a pretty good chance that Nova has something there. As we understand it, Yoga is a primeval form of Couelism, the philosophy of a post-war world that was trying to convince itself that it was better than it was.

Yoga may even produce a partial imperviousness to pain. It may have something of the same effect of the nurse who gets you interested in a conversation while the doc is wielding his scalpel.

Anyway, Yoga or not, Lou Nova deserves the June shot against Louis. Bill Conn is currently scheduled for that big fight, but he hasn't one-tenth the title shot claims of Nova. He is not a heavyweight and hasn't beaten any heavyweight better than a third-rater.

ENTITLED TO TITLE SHOT

Nova has met them all, and with the exception of Galento he has whipped them. He was promised a shot at Louis after he beat Baer the first time, and again after he beat Pat Comiskey.

Nova would like to fight Galento again, but if he does it will mean that he has broken with the quiet, sincere manager who brought him to the front, Ray Carlin.

Carlin will quit as Nova's manager if Lou insists on fighting Galento again. Just what will come of this remains to be seen.

Nova is a stubborn fellow. He believes Galento tried to blind him during that grisly massacre. He wants revenge. But Carlin has a cooler, wiser head.

"I'm putting Lou in mothballs," he told us, "until he fights Louis. The public won't stand for a Louis-Conn fight in June, when Nova is around, ready to win the championship."

Change Dates For Masters' Golf Tournament

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7 (AP)—Cliff Roberts, tournament chairman of the Agusta Masters' golf tournament, announced that next year the Masters will be played a week later, April 9-12.

This change was decided on in the hopes of getting better weather. Each year so far there has been rain at least one day, and two years ago Gene Sarazen had to make his final putt through hailstones on the 18th green. The weather for the finish, incidentally, was perfect.

Worcester Site for 1941 National

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—Sectional qualifying rounds for the 1941 national open golf championship, to be played June 5-7 at the Colonial Club, Fort Worth, Texas, will be played on May 26 at 27 locations.

This is one of the largest numbers of sectional districts since the system was inaugurated with two in 1924. The greatest number was 32 in 1937 and 1939 and it dropped to 25 last year.

Texas has been given two sectional qualifying locations, Dallas and Houston, instead of one. New Orleans and San Francisco have been added to the schedule and Albany, N. Y., eliminated for this year. In other districts shifts in locations have been made — from Boston to Worcester, Mass., for New England; Asheville to Pinehurst for the Carolinas; Oklahoma City from Tulsa for Oklahoma, and from Tacoma, Wash., to Portland, Ore., for the Southwest.

The number of places allotted to each place will not be announced until the entries are in. Entries close May 13. As usual, both the number of entries and the playing strength represented in each district will be considered by officials in deciding how many players will qualify through the one-day, 36-hole sectional tests.

The field for the tournament proper again will be approximately 170 players and about 40 entries will be exempt from the sectional rounds.

White Sox Down Cubs in Slugfest

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 7 (AP)—Chicago's White Sox and Cubs got nine home runs between them for the second consecutive day, but it was the Sox who won the slugfest, 9 to 8.

The Cubs, who lead in the series four games to three, almost caught the American Leaguers with a ninth inning rally that included two of the five homers they made during the game.

Hirsch Stable Arrives in New York

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—Trainer Max Hirsch arrived from his winter training grounds at Columbia, S. C., with a string of 42 horses, headed by Dispose and Attention, his Kentucky Derby hopefuls.

Dispose, which won the Flamingo stakes at Miami is a co-favorite with Our Boots in the Derby future books.

Lonnie Frey, our favorite N. L. second baseman, was up in the clutch all afternoon. In the third inning with three on he lined savagely to Foxx for the third out. BRUINS CLIP RED WINGS DESPITE RAGGED PLAY

Tired, injury ridden and far off the mental pitch that carried them this far, the Bruins still managed to stagger to victory No. 1 in the Stanley Cup finals by a 3-2 score against a listless Detroit outfit before a local gathering of 16,740 at the old depot.

Never has there been a more [illegible] game according to old-time followers.

It was just a case of the Bruins letting down after that amazing series with the Leafs. The Wings or the other Land were so rusted by a week of inactivity that they just couldn't get together.

The result was unexciting hockey until the last ten minutes when the Bruins came close to throwing the game away after apparently having it salted.

Leading 3 to 0 with ten minutes to play, the Rossmen relaxed with the thought of coasting home—the Wings thought otherwise.

The invaders picked up a cheap goal and then with Milt Schmidt lost in the last five minutes due to a charley horse, the Wings added another and then came within inches of deadlocking the game in the last two minutes on three different occasions.

BAUER MISSING

In justice to the Bruins, it must be admitted that Bobby Bauer saw no action even though dressed which meant that Pat McCreavey had to right wing the Kraut line.

Take Eamer out and have Cowley sidelined and that's quite a loss to any club.

Because of this the Bruins just poked along and yet they picked up three goals with Milt Schmidt taking top honors—a goal and an assist. Eddie Wiseman and Pat McReavy counted on other tallies.

Wiseman opened the scoring at 13:26 in the opening period. Conacher started the scoring play with a pass to Des Smith who fired at the strings. The shot was stopped by the defensemen and Johnny Mowers came out to cover the plug but Wiseman beat him to the draw and just lifted the disc into the strings.

Then up came Schmidt with a second period score that was the finest effort since the Bruins moved in to the playoffs. Johnny Crawford got matters rolling by nudging the puck to Dumart. Porky passed forward to Milt Schmidt and the attack rolled into high.

Milt came racing into attacking territory with Harold Jackson right up even with him. Jackson started riding Milt to the right but the Bruins' center always kept control of the puck. Then just before Schmiddy passed beyond the imaginary line, he fired a backhander that just hit inside the far corner. The score came at 14:45

F. DS MCREAVY

Schmidt then came up with another brilliant effort in the third period when he took Crawford's pass and stick handled around the defense to come in alone. He faked a shot and drew Mowers out perfectly. With a cinch goal at his command, Milt passed to Pat McReavy who easily notched the tally.

It looked like a shoom for here with only ten minutes to play. Even when Connie Brown stole the puck from Clapper and passed to Carl Liscombe who beat Brimsek easily at 10:55 there was no concern among the crowd.

But when Milt Schmidt was checked into the boards by Jackson and forced out with five minutes to go, the Wings started to press and action became hot and heavy.

Throwing all caution to the winds, the Wings counted again. Syd Howe lifted the puck from center ice to the corner and in charged Connie Brown, who retrieved it and flipped it out to the same Howe, who rifled it home at 17:45.

One goal away, the invaders tossed everything they had but couldn't knot the score. With a few seconds remaining, they yanked Mowers and pushed on six forwards but it was to no avail.

In fact, Herb Cain lifted a shot more than half the length of the ice into the strings for a fourth goal but Referee Bill Stewart ruled the game had ended just before Cain left fly.

And in that way the first Stanley Cup final game went into history.

Both clubs felt that their play was disappointing and the rival managers promise much better effort tomorrow night.

Tony Musto Unafraid As Louis Clash Nears

By PAT ROBINSON

ST. LOUIS, April 7 (INS)—There is a morbid streak in some people that makes them want to know what a condemned man thinks about before entering the execution chamber. And it probably is the same perverse curiosity that makes us interview all of Joe Louis' prospective victims.

Some victims, like Kingfish Levinsky, Max Baer and Johnny Paychek, have gone to meet their fate almost paralyzed by fear. Others, with as little hope of reprieve, like Arturo Godoy and Tony Galento, went with a snarl on their lips, but unafraid.

And a few, like Max Schmeling and Jim Braddock, went ahead determined to be the executioner rather than the executed.

MUSTO GAME

Tony Musto, a former puddler, who packs 196 pounds on a five-foot-seven frame, who is slated to be victim No. 16 for Louis tomorrow night, will enter the lethal chamber in the same fearless spirit that characterized Braddock and Schmeling.

We asked him today if he was afraid of Louis. He laughed.

"Why should I be? The worst he can do is knock me out so why should I be afraid of another sock on the jaw. I've taken a million of them and nobody has stiffened me yet."

Did he actually believe, then, that he has a chance to win, or is he going in there just for the fun's end?

"No, sir," he said earnestly and politely; "I think I have an outside chance."

That was refreshingly modest, at any rate. What made him think so?

"Well, for one thing, I can punch pretty good myself. I have a good left hook. Everybody who ever fought Louis tried to beat him by punching for his jaw. I'm not going to make the same mistake. I'm going to punch for the body, and if I can weaken him I'll go after his jaw to finish him."

Manlapig Gets Shot at Title

Pantaleon Manlapig, the big tan man from the Philippine Islands, gets his long awaited chance at the world's heavyweight wrestling title Wednesday night when he clashes with The Angel, the weird looking champion, in the main event of promoter Paul Bowser's all-star tournament at the Boston Arena.

Manlapig's best hold is his famed and deadly "cobra hold," which, as the name implies, is like a huge snake winding himself around a man's neck.

Providence Girl In Augusta Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7 (AP)—This city's golfing enthusiasm will switch from the masculine to the feminine today when an all-star field of sectional and district champions tee off in the 54-hole title-holders tournament at the Augusta Country Club.

Two Georgia girls will be among the favorites, Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta and young Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs. Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C.; Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I.; Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky.; Helen Dettweiler of Washington, D. C., and Janet Younker of Scarsdale, N. Y., are among the other top contenders.

In past years this tournament has been held in January, too early to attract most of the leading women golfers. Though this year's event is an innovation, it is expected the tournament will be held as a follow-up to the masters from now on.

Also the touching of a kicked ball beyond the line of scrimmage before it has been touched by the receivers is no longer considered a foul; a forward pass may be batted in any direction irrespective of the old ban made to prevent an opponent from catching the ball; the rule requiring the umpire to keep a record of substitutions is rescinded and the honor system adopted and an additional referee's time out is authorized for delays not caused by a team.

DAVE WILSON HAS 21 WINNERS IN THREE DAYS

TWENTY-ONE WINNERS IN THREE DAYS, INCLUDING TWO DAILY DOUBLES!

Sizzling hot, Dave Wilson, nation's foremost handicapper and exclusively featured in the GREEN RACE SPECIAL of the BOSTON AMERICAN, is continuing to set a scorching pace, coming up consistently with many winners and making his latest win streak the best yet.

Seven winners Saturday, seven winners Friday and seven winners Thursday. When "King Dave" gets hot there just isn't any stopping him.

At Hialeah Park he left his rivals reeling and his followers very happy, amassing the amazing total of 111 winners, including many good-priced horses and connected for daily doubles of good proportions.

For the past seven years Wilson has drawn away from his contemporaries, automatically becoming the Number One man handicapper at whichever track he operated. This year he figures to breeze home and keep his perfect slate intact.

Dave's winners for the past three days at Bowie, Maryland, and Tropical Park, Fla.:

AIR SPRING, $4.30; HUNTING HOME, $11.50 (DAILY DOUBLE, $31.70); ALPINE LAD, $3.50; MEMORY BOOK, $7.10; JACK STING, $3.40; DRAW BY, $11.70; EBONY FLY, $5.90; PACIFICATION, $3.70; SHANSI, $4.20; CHERRIKO, $7.70; DARBY DALLAS, $4.40; RANGE DUST, $6; VILLA PLATTE, $6.50; ALCA, $6.80; ADOLF, $3.50; GINOBI, $4.90 (DAILY DOUBLE, $10.20); ROBERT L., $4.40; HAPPY LARK, $12; WISE COUNSEL, $10.80; SILVESTRA, $10.70; FIRE FINCH, $7.40.

Quite an imposing list—but it's nothing new to Wilson.

As a matter-of-fact the proof is in the records.

Dave stands out like a beacon light. His ability to call the turn on first time starting, maiden 2-year-olds, is positively uncanny. The King not only comes up with healthy-priced winners with the greatest of regularity in the most difficult of races to handicap, but actually gives them stick-out figures.

A glance over his great record at Hialeah Park (which places him far in the van of any other handicapper in the nation) would be sufficient evidence as to why, even his rivals will admit that he is the top man in his field.

Some of the famous examples of why he belongs far in advance of the others may easily be brought out.

It is true that Dave Wilson accomplished the unprecedented feat of coming up with five daily doubles in six days of racing at Suffolk Downs.

It is true that Dave Wilson was the ONLY HANDICAPPER in the entire nation, to predict the downfall of the heavily-favored Brevity in the Kentucky Derby a few years back, naming Bold Venture, a 20-1 shot, to accomplish that feat, which he did.

It is true that Dave Wilson opened the Hialeah season with five winners, the daily double and a 15 to 1 shot for the winner of the Inaugural Handicap. (He closed the season with five more—coming up with 101 winners in between.)

He was the first handicapper in the nation to go on record as saying that Bimelech, as a two-year-old, would never meet defeat, before the colt had ever started.

He named Sirocco to capture the famed Arlington Classic and the return was better than 12 to 1.

That is why the answer to those who are looking for winners is:

WIN WITH WILSON!

OUR BOOTS DERBY FIELD MYSTERY

NEW YORK, April 7 (AP)—As the second leading 2-year-old money winner of 1940 and current co-favorite for the Kentucky Derby, the time has come to ask Our Boots how he's enjoyed his vacation.

The answere probably is as much a mystery to Our Boots at it is to you, judging from all you hear out of the winter quarters of this big bargain of the Saratoga yearling sales of two years ago. He still is among the question marks.

For, while the handlers of Royce G. Martin's crack juvenile are satisfied he'll be there or thereabouts when they pass out that necklace of roses at the Downs May 3, information getting by the "censors" would indicate Bull Dog's big boy will have to hurry right along with his conditioning.

He spent the winter—at least until a week or so ago—at Hot Springs, Ark., and the railbirds insist he wasn't asked to do a thing to show what he has to offer against the other three-year-olds this spring and summer.

HORSE WORKED SLOWLY

"In fact," drawled one Arkansas clocker, "his workouts were only casual. He never breezed once while he was here."

All of which sounds as if Trainer Steve Judge—half of the Woodvale Farm ownership, of which the other portion is Martin, the Toledo furfancier—isn't going to have much time to waste this month with his dark bay galloper. And he hasn't wasted any since shipping Our Boots to Keenland to make ready for his "prep" in the Blue Grass stakes the week before the Derby.

Right now, after several days of solid work, the 3-1 future book shot—co-favorite with Dispose—doesn't look too far away from the form that made him the good thing he was as a youngster. Bought for $3500 at the yearling sales of '39, he won $72,551 as a two-year-old, came home winging in three of his six starts, was never out of the money, and whipped Whirlaway three of the four times they met.

Veteran Sports Writer Heart Attack Victim

PITTSBURGH, April 7 (AP)—Bert Taggart, 47, veteran Pittsburgh sports writer, died of a heart attack on a downtown street. Taggart had work for the old Pittsburgh Sun and had been with the Post-Gazette since 1927. His specialties were golf, hockey and boxing.

Cardinals Score Eighth Straight

HOUSTON, Tex., April 7 (AP)—Excellent pitching continued as the St. Louis Cardinals won their eighth straight exhibition baseball game, defeating Houston of the Texas League, 5 to 1.

Fiddler Bill McGee had a two-hit shutout for six innings. The Cardinals' farm club scored its lone run in the seventh on two errors and two singles.

Met Handicap To Match Stars At Belmont

The 48th running of the Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park on May 24 will bring together outstanding thoroughbreds. A noted stakes event, the Metropolitan will be the final important test for the Suburban Handicap a week later.

Three horses which alone would make the Metropolitan a classic are among its 52 candidates. This trio consists of Charles S. Howard's Mioland, George D. Widener's Eight Thirty and Greentree Stable's Third Degree. The latter won the 1940 renewal of the race.

Belair Stud's Fenelon, one of the best 3-year-olds seen under silks last year and winner of the Lawrence Realization over the same track, will probably make his first important start against older horses in the Metropolitan and will be highly respected.

By JACK CONWAY

MIKE JACOBS of the Twentieth Century Club should forget about his bout between Joe Louis and Billy Conn already announced for June, and sign Lou Nova to clash with the "Brown Bomber"

By virtue of his victories over Pat Comiskey and Max Baer the youthful Nova has proved he has the necessary ability to give Louis a hard battle.

It would not be necessary for the press agents of the Twentieth Century Club to make excuses for Nova's weight if he were to get the crack at Louis. Lou weighed 202 pounds for his winning tussle with Baer. He is a big, handsome well set up heavyweight, and makes a marvelous impression when he enters the ring. He also does pretty well once the gong sounds for the first round.

In the case of Conn, one cannot get away from the fact he is only a light heavyweight. Try as they will they have been unable to build Conn up beyond 175 pounds. The history of the ring proves that a good little man cannot beat a good big man. Even though Louis has not been as impressive in recent bouts as he was in some of his earlier ring engagements it does not appear as if the champion has gone back far enough to be beaten by Conn.

Conn ended his campaign for a bout with Louis by stopping Gunnar Barlund in eight rounds in Chicago. The Illinois Athletic Commission held up Barlund's money and ordered a hearing when the Finnish heavyweight, his eyes and face a mass of cuts and bruises, wouldn't come out of his corner for the eighth round. The doctor representing the commission declared he did not order the bout to be stopped.

It was pointed out in this column several days before the Chicago bout that Barlund cut easily as a result of punishment received in previous bouts, and that this condition might make it impossible for him to go the full distance. If the members of the Illinois Athletic Commission knew as much about boxing as they are supposed to, they should never have sanctioned the match. It was a cinch that the battle-scarred Barlund would be a target for Conn's left hand and that old wounds would go popping open.

The time for an athletic commission to give attention to such matters is before a bout takes place. It is ridiculous to blame Barlund for something that was almost certain to happen.

Conn Will Refuse to Yield Position

IT IS UNLIKELY that Conn's manager, Johnny Ray, will listen to any suggestion that Nova receive the first crack at Louis. Ray and Conn, to do them justice, have felt for a year and a half that Louis is an overrated fighter and that he can be beaten. Conn believes his speed, left hand and fighting spirit will send Louis down to defeat.

If Conn gets the June bout with Louis, Nova will have to wait until September for a championship date. If Louis wins there is not any question that he will agree to meet Nova.

I doubt that if Conn becomes champion he will care to risk his title against Nova or anyone else in September. Not that he fears Nova, but it would not be the smart thing for him to do.

As conqueror of Louis, Conn would be one of the greatest attractions in sports. He could easily earn $500,000 in the movies, by theatrical appearances and in exhibitions. Why box a tough fellow like Nova when there is that kind of money to pick up?

The 22,114 persons at the Baer-Nova bout and the gate of $95,000 proved that boxing is on the way to another great boom. In Chicago on the same night, 15,000 persons attended the Conn-Barlund tussle which was far from being a star attraction.

Boxing always has its biggest years during a defense or war period. Part of the millions of dollars paid to workers in the various industries finds its way back into the box offices of boxing clubs.

In the days following and during the World War, there were six boxing clubs operating in Boston each week. They all made money.

The Fritzie Zivic-Mike Kaplan bout at the Garden on April 18 will prove that Boston is also ready to go big time in boxing. I look for this contest to attract 15,000 persons.

Zivic and Kaplan, off their records, should furnish a close fight. I saw Zivic the night he successfully defended his world's welterweight championship against Hammering Henry Armstrong. He is a good boxer, and hits solidly with each hand.

Zivic wouldn't agree to risk his title against Kaplan as he knows Mike has an even chance to beat him. I don't believe the public is as much interested in a title bout as they are in whether or not they are going to be offered a real contest. The Zivic-Kaplan tussle measures up in the matter of a contest.

If Kaplan wallops Zivic in their overweight meeting, the champion will have to give the local boy a chance at his precious crown.

Maine Girl Bowler Sets Pace With 325 Total in N. E. Classic

By WALTER KILEY

There won't be a dull moment all week long as the American-Record New England candlepin championships head into the second full week and the home stretch of the Huntington competition. The tournament which opened at an unusually low scoring pace flared wide open over the week-end as the bowling clans ganged up and livened the proceedings in record fashion.

Just nine new divisional leaders took over in Saturday's spectacular going. Yet with by far the bigger half of the field yet to enter the battle lists, it is a near certainty that most of the current marks will possess new owners before Saturday night's closing hour rolls around.

Reserved for the very last event on the 13-day program is the men's open singles which attracts virtually every crack alley artist in New England.

PROS HAVE INNING

This year's field will be headed by such super-stars as Francis Chimenello of Quincy, defending American-Record champion and former world champion; Joe Bonigli of Milton, current world champion; Mike Caraddo of Lynn, New England champion; Joe Rubbicco of Jamaica Plain, Harry Arathuzik and other former American-Record champions.

This open field will tee off at exactly 7:30 Saturday night, all taking to the lanes at the one time, bowling five strings, the bottom half then being eliminated and the top half continuing on for another five strings.

At the end of 10 strings, the field will again be cut in halves and the best will return the night of Saturday, April 19 to battle it out over the 10 strings route for the diamond medal and cash which awaits the winner. All leading finishers will be rewarded with cash.

Little Frances Murphy, pretty brunette youngster from Van Buren, Maine, was acclaimed tournament favorite during the first week. The 17-year-old youngster, making her first tournament try, travelled 500 miles from her home on the Canadian border to thrill the Huntington Club audiences.

The gallery marvelled at her flawless form, her superb timing, footwork, sweeping swing and mantlike precision. They called her the forerunner of the girl bowler of tomorrow, modern youth in its freedom as exemplified in sports.

MAINE GIRL BRILLIANT

Her scores were only incidental to her promise. At that she averaged close to 107 in some 25 practice strings, hit 303 in her women's singles competition, 309 in the doubles and then teamed with Harry Gildart of Cambridge to pound out a combined 623 to shoot way out front in the amateur mixed doubles. She left an indelible impression on bowling fans of Boston before departing this morning for her northern home.

Frank Pace and Cesidio Lifrieri of Charlestown broke out the most spectacular moments of the tournament to date. Shooting at the men's doubles lead which was then 686, a terrifically high tandem score, they manufactured 687, just one pin to the good and made possible by a 19-spare accounted for by Lifrieri on the very last box.

Today's field is a fast one, all the way through the long list of singles, doubles and team competitions in both the amateur and open divisions.

The shooting has just started. New fireworks are in the making and the Huntington Club will be a wild place daily.

WOOD, AT 39, REACHES GOLF THRONE BY OLD-FASHIONED FINESSE SHOTS

By BILL BONI

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7 (AP)—If this is in a slightly celebrant mood, ladies and gentlemen, we simply must beg your indulgence. Ever since, roughly, 6 o'clock yesterday evening we have been helping to celebrate a golfing victory which deserved celebration as much as any single triumph we can recall.

CRAIG WOOD
Wins Masters' Tilt

Reference is, of course, to Craig Woods' triumph in the eighth annual Augusta Masters' tournament. Wood won by three shots, he finished with an even-par 72 for a 72-hole score of 280, eight under par, he beat P. G. A. Champion Byron Nelson by three strokes, and he had the seasoning and the golf shots to clinch the victory with a two-under-par finish for the last nine holes

HITS PEAK AT 39

Thus Wood, at 39, attained a peak which most professional golfers hit ten years earlier.

Though he won the metropolitan open less than a year ago with a new championship record score of 274, this was the first time in his career that he has been able to take down one of the pro game's four top prizes—the U. S. and British opens, the P. G. A., and the Masters.

To Wood this new triumph is not as remarkable an accomplishment as it may appear in black and white. He may be 39, and thus be giving away 10 years and more to lads like Nelson and Ben Hogan.

TEN-YEARS HELPED

But Craig believes that those 10 years have been spent learning just the type of thing that helped him win yesterday before a gallery that set a new Masters attendance record.

"When I started playing golf," he said between glances at congratulatory telegrams, "I was a natural hooker.

"To overcome that, I had to learn fades, I had to learn how to pancake second shots, I had to learn cut shots, things some of the present-day crop don't bother about because they have more natural ability.

"That's why I won today. The Augusta national course is one that pays off for a man who knows how to play all sorts of shots. The lad who can score consistently on the winter tour's bang-bang-bang courses will find this is a different proposition. And that's where I came in."

HOGAN TOPS PRO GOLFERS WITH $8067

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7 (AP)—Ben Hogan's fourth-place finish in the Augusta Masters' golf tournament, the 46th consecutive time he has placed in the money, was worth $500 and boosted his winnings on the 1941 winter tour to $8067.

Hogan finished the winter circuit in top place, with Sam Snead second at $5961. Craig Wood's victory in the Masters, worth $1500, moved him from fourth place to third with $5526.

The other leaders in the competition that began with the Los Angeles Open in January:

Johnny Bulla, Greensboro, N. C., $4945; Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., $4475; Clayton Heafner, Linville, N. C., $3305; Lawson Little, San Francisco, $3187; Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., $2003; Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., $1925; Willie Goggin, White Plains, N. Y., $1881.

Hogan also finished the tour leading in the Vardon trophy low-scoring standing, with 250 points to Snead's 213. The other leaders: Wood, 169; Nelson, 157; Heafner, 118; McSpaden, 86; Jimmy Demaret, Noroton, Ct., 63; Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, 61; Goggin and Corp. Ed Oliver, U. S. Army, 60 each.

Nature Must Heal Rustic Romance

RICHMOND, Va., April 7 (AP)—Rustic Romance, Paul Mellon's ace steeplechase campaigner and winner of the Deep Run Hunt Cup here yesterday, is allergic.

The Pittsburgh sportsman said he discovered that the horse reacted violently to all antiseptics, so Rustic Romance will have to be withheld from hunt meetings for a few weeks waiting for nature to heal severe leg lacerations received on the Deep Run timber jumps.

GOODWIN ASKS CAUTION

Drive slowly in thickly settled districts. Such was the plea today of Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin as he reported that of the 13 persons killed by cars last week 12 met death in heavy populated areas.

Tigers Partial to Lakeland Site

LAKELAND, Fla., April 7 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers will return here for their ninth spring training season in 1942, it was announced at the Tiger-Washington Senator game, final exhibition contest before the Detroit club starts north today.

Manager R. L. Park of the Chamber of Commerce said he had been authorized by Walter O. Briggs, club owner, to make the announcement. The contract includes an option for the team to extend the same agreement through 1943. The Tigers dropped their eleventh game to the Senators, 6-2.

Battered B. C. Squad Tapers Off Grid Toil

The bruised but willing Boston College football squad welcomed the announcement today that practice would only be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Since the college closes down for the spring vacation on Wednesday, the squad will be given the rest of the week off. They will report back on Monday following Easter and will work out twice daily until the closing of the session.

Billy Quinn, a muscular freshman from Brooklyn, N. Y., has been operating at the blocking back post since the start of spring practice last week. Billy, who was second string quarterback with the yearling eleven last fall, moved into the job when Ralph Nash, Justin McGowan and Chris Brady failed to report at the opening of spring practice.

John E. Warner Says, Avoid Aging 14 Years in 4

This young man has a fine head of hair and doesn't feel that he will ever be bald. Yet, his scalp is laden with dandruff, itches constantly, and he loses a great deal of hair each day. Right now a short period of the pleasant, low-cost, scientific treatment used by John E. Warner and Associates would get rid of his dandruff, check the hair-fall and normalize his scalp. He could keep this fine head of hair.

A year later the hair has receded at the temples, and our young man is worrying about it. He douses his head with cure-all lotions, and his scalp condition is growing worse. A free private consultation with John E. Warner would tell him that he could save and improve the hair which he still has.

Three years later, it is too late to have a good head of hair but not too late to save and improve the hair that remains, through prompt treatment, by John E. Warner and Associates. The Warner method of treatment is effective because of years of research, study and experience.

Four years later, it is too late, his appearance is permanently marred, a serious handicap to anyone. A youthful appearance is necessary these days to success in the social and business worlds. Statistics show that 85% of all baldness can be prevented if properly treated in time; but once you are bald you can never hope to regrow hair (except in rare cases of 'alopecia areata'). John E. Warner's new offices are conveniently located on the Third Floor at 80 Boylston St., Little Building, Suite 320. Phone Hub. 1705. Hours 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily. Saturdays to 6 p. m. There is no charge or obligation for a private scalp examination and consultation. Fees for treatment are very moderate. There is a separate dept. for women. Adv.

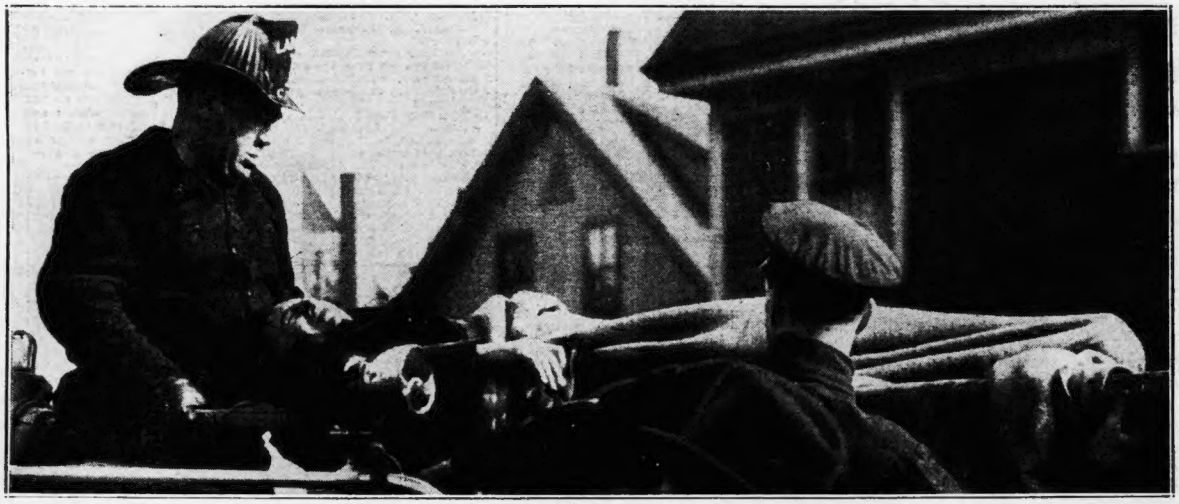
FAIR RAIN SHOWERS CLOUDY

BOMBS RAIN ON ENGLAND

Rescue Workers Work Furiously to Free Trapped Victim

Blitz Aftermath—Two photos, typical of hundreds, tell the story of the rescue of a person trapped in the ruins of his bombed home . . . somewhere in England. Seeking the victims of a Nazi raid, searchers locate the man, begin digging (left) and carry him to first aid station after rescue.



Cambridge Fire Casualty—Blinded by smoke, Lt. John Drynan, 40, of Rescue Co. I fell into a fire pit in the cellar of the old Newtonwe Club in North Cambridge when a two-alarm fire tied up rush traffic for an hour there today. Drynan, shown being carried to an ambulance, suffered a broken leg. Two other firemen were less seriously injured.
